

BATTLE RAGES WITHIN STALINGRAD BUT DESPERATE DEFENSE CONTINUES

Crew Loss Is Slight In Midway Sinking Of Carrier Yorktown

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The mighty aircraft carrier Yorktown, veteran of much Pacific fighting, with destruction of at least a dozen Japanese ships to her credit, was sunk during the battle of Midway in June while United States naval and air forces were scoring their greatest victory of the war over an enemy armada bent upon conquest of the Hawaiian Islands.

Schools Told To Focus All On War Effort

Impact of war on public schools of Georgia was driven home to city and county school superintendents yesterday as plain-talking representatives of federal agencies declared schools will have to forget normal educational routine and concentrate on winning the war.

Superintendents learned, for example, that their teachers will not be deferred when their time comes to go into the armed forces, regardless of how vital their experience may be.

They learned that school children must be organized into efficient units with "colonels" and "captains" and "lieutenants" for the collection of scrap metal and other salvaged materials, the lack of which is today holding up production.

They learned that the boys and girls will be "drafted" for the sale of War Bonds and Stamps and that interest will be stimulated by letting schools and classes compete with each other.

They were told that the health of youngsters must be improved through school lunch and milk programs and that women must be trained to teach mathematics and subjects when the men are called into service.

In the drive for greater production of foodstuffs, Robert Strickland, Atlanta banker and chairman of the State Agriculture Council, said every community must recognize it is going to be thrown back more and more on its own resources.

M. D. Mobley, state director of vocational education, said the vocational canneries may not get tin cans next year and the 400 plants over the state may have to be converted into dehydrating plants for drying foods.

Considerable time was devoted to the need for salvaged metal. W. T. Anderson, chairman of the Georgia salvage committee, and his aides, declared that some steel mills are now closed down because they can't get enough scrap. Sixty-five per cent scrap and 35 per cent pig iron is required for

Scattered Showers Forecast for Today

More moderate temperatures with scattered showers are predicted for Atlanta today, the Weather Bureau reported last night. Glen Jefferson's forecast was "moderate temperatures Thursday with scattered showers and thundershowers."

Yesterday's high was 86 degrees, while the low was 70.

Second Front This Year Is Sought by Russians

By ROBERT E. BUNNELLE.
LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A foreign diplomatic source said today that the Russians, disappointed over the delay of Britain and the United States in establishing a second front, are pressing for such a decision quickly.

Moscow was said to hold the view that it not only is necessary to establish a second front in 1942, but also that it is entirely feasible.

(The source of this report cannot be named. But the nature of the source, plus its timing, lend renewed importance to what appears to be merely a restatement of a position Russia has held for some time, but on which there has been less agitation since Prime Minister Churchill's recent visit to Moscow.)

The feeling in Moscow, it was said by this source, was that the Russian people and the Red Army were both led to believe by the Loss of the 19,900-ton floating airbase and a few of her crew as a result of Japanese air and submarine attacks was announced by the Navy today. The disclosure ended weeks of strictest secrecy ordered by the high command to prevent Japanese use of the knowledge in estimating American naval forces available for operations in the conquest of the Solomon Islands.

Carried 85 Planes.

The Yorktown, which had a normal complement of 85 planes and 2,072 officers and men, was one of seven carriers with which the United States entered the war. Five are left, the Lexington having been lost in the Battle of the Coral Sea in May.

The remaining five, considered at least numerically equal to and qualitatively superior to Japan's present aircraft carrier force, are the Enterprise, sister ship of the Yorktown, Saratoga, sister ship of the Lexington, and the Wasp, Hornet and Ranger.

The battered and torn Yorktown which had participated in the Coral Sea fighting along with the Lexington, went down somewhere between Midway Island and a haven—presumably Pearl Harbor—to which salvage crews were trying desperately to remove her. The blows which doomed her were delivered by a Japanese submarine at the very moment when the salvage force began to hold strong hope of getting her to port.

Sub Sunk in Turn.

But the submarine itself is believed to have been sunk, in turn, the Navy said, just as the Japanese carrier whose planes first successfully attacked the Yorktown had been destroyed two days before by the Yorktown's own aircraft.

The epic of the Yorktown's end began on the afternoon of June 4, which was the climactic day of the Midway engagement. The Japanese already had lost three of their best carriers, the Kaga, Akagi and Soryu, when a force of 36 planes from a fourth, the Hiryu, as yet undamaged, roared in toward the Yorktown.

Before they could reach the carrier, 11 of 18 Japanese bombers in the attacking group were shot down by American fighters. Seven got through the first fighter screen, but three of those were destroyed as they approached close to their target. The four that were left scored three direct dive-bomb hits and escaped.

Reporter Sees Attack.

Wendell Webb, Associated Press correspondent with the Pacific fleet who saw this attack, reported that the carrier took fire and gave off a huge cloud of black smoke. Witnesses despised of the ship's survival. But then the fire was brought under control and the carrier and her escort got under way again.

A few minutes later between 12 and 15 enemy torpedo planes with fighter protection followed up the first attack. United States fighter planes got four to seven of these and antiaircraft fire accounted for three more. But five succeeded

'Wake Island' Bond Tickets Hit $700,000

More than 4,000 Atlantans who in the past 48 days have purchased nearly $700,000 worth of war bonds will be the guests of the Fox theater tonight for the premiere showing of "Wake Island," epic drama of American courage and sacrifice.

From 15 department stores, a dozen banks and two theaters "Wake Island" premiere tickets have been distributed to purchasers of war bonds. A few, in the $100 and $1,000 denominations, still may be obtained, though the $25 balcony seats and the $50 seats downstairs have all been distributed to bond purchasers.

A person must have a ticket, issued to him when he buys a bond, to gain admission to the premiere. Bonds alone will not be sufficient.

Tonight's premiere, complete with all the glitter and fanfare which marks such special showings, will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Admission will be by war bond ticket only, and no seats will be sold except in connection with a war bond purchase. The bond booth at the Fox will remain open until curtain time and bond purchasers may obtain whatever tickets that remain unsold after the close of business at the bank and department stores this afternoon.

Only program in connection with the premiere showing will be the presentation of a set of colors to the Wake Island Detachment of the Marine Service League, organization of veteran Leathernecks of the last war, William K. Jenkins will make the presentation. Young Marines stationed in Atlanta will form a color guard for the veterans organization.

U. S. Takes Big Toll Of Jap Ships, Men

Does She Mean You?

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Lieutenant Liudmila Pavlichenko, Russian woman sniper credited with killing 309 Nazis, declared today that "it is plain to see that with American women what is important is whether they wear silk underwear under their uniforms."

She added grimly: "What the uniform stands for, they have yet to learn."

In an interview given Alice Hughes, radio commentator, at the Soviet consulate here, the attractive lieutenant said that she had been amazed by "the silly questions asked me in America."

"One woman even criticized the length of the skirt of my uniform, saying that in America women wear shorter skirts and besides my uniform made me look fat," the Russian woman fighter added.

"This made me angry. I wear my uniform with honor. It has the Order of Lenin on it. It has been covered with blood in battle."

Mexico Stages Military Parade

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Hundreds of thousands of Mexicans saw the most impressive military parade in Mexico's history today as the republic celebrated its first war-time independence anniversary.

The accent of the demonstration was on new mechanized equipment and modern aircraft and for the first time United States Jeeps were paraded here.

President Avila Camacho reviewed the parade from the national palace.

Victory Gardeners To Get Fertilizer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Victory gardeners need not worry about the fertilizer problem, the War Production Board assured them today.

WPB said its recent order limiting the delivery and use of chemical fertilizers did not make victory gardeners ineligible to obtain supplies.

The order, however, contains a provision prohibiting the delivery of chemical fertilizers in bags of less than 100 pounds. WPB said this provision might inconvenience victory gardeners, since they ordinarily purchase in smaller lots.

Planes Smash Aleutian Isle, Solomons Base

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Army and Navy aircraft, striking furious new blows at both ends of the far-flung Pacific battlefield, have taken a heavy toll of Japanese land and sea forces, including the damaging of two cruisers among the Solomon Islands, and three submarines trapped in harbor in the Aleutians far to the north.

This was announced tonight by the naval high command, which revealed that the American onslaught in the Aleutians, which occurred on Monday, sank two enemy mine sweepers, killed or wounded 500 troops, destroyed six airplanes and wrecked storehouses and other installations at Kiska Harbor, the Japs' main base in those islands.

In the Solomons, where land fighting had slackened off with Marine positions apparently still intact, the enemy was reported to have lost shore installations as a result of a bombing attack on the base at Rekata Bay, about 140 miles northwest of the American airfield at Guadalcanal. This was in addition to the damage inflicted on the two cruisers, one of which was hit by a torpedo and the other by a bomb.

Announcement of these successful forays, signaling a sudden, violent resurgence of American air activity in the Pacific, came at the end of a day which had its bad as well as its good news for the American cause.

The report on the loss of the Yorktown made up the Navy's first communique of the day. The second, early this evening, told of conditions in the Solomons where reinforced Japanese troops undertook last weekend a determined effort to crack Marine positions guarding the American air base on Guadalcanal Island.

"The intensity of the fighting on Guadalcanal Island has decreased and the Marines are still holding their positions," the communique said.

Hitler Warns Press To Expect Release 'Within 24 Hours'

MOSCOW, Thursday, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Russians announced officially early today that German shock troops had battered into the northwestern outskirts of Stalingrad where the Red army and civilians were battling desperately to save that southern arsenal city which is the gateway to Astrakhan on the Caspian sea.

A midnight communique which for the first time placed the fighting in the city's outskirts said: "On the northwest outskirts of Stalingrad our troops fought heavy actions against the enemy. In one sector individual groups of enemy tanks drove wedges into our defenses, but were wiped out in the heavy fighting that ensued."

Hitler Announcement.

(The German propaganda ministry has informed the German press in Berlin that a special announcement, presumably dealing with Stalingrad, would be issued from Hitler's headquarters within 24 hours, Exchange Telegraph reported from Zurich, Switzerland.)

The Russians, fighting against the flaming backdrop of Stalingrad which has been heavily assaulted by Nazi dive-bombers, were under orders to stand or die. There appeared to be no retreat, either, for the civilian army inside the Volga river city named for Premier Stalin.

The Germans were bringing up reserves steadily to replace the thousands of fallen Nazis, the Russians said. Among these were Rumanians, and the communique said one whole Rumanian regiment was routed in the fight outside the city.

Heavy Nazi Losses.

In another sector Soviet artillery was said to have wiped out 13 Nazi tanks, 34 motor vehicles, and a battalion of German infantry. Thirty-two German planes also were reported shot down in air combat.

Down in the middle Caucasus the Russians reported capture of a "tactically important populated place" in the Moxdok area, and the repulse of German counterattacks on the south bank of a river there. The German goal in this area is Grozny, less than 60 miles southeastward.

A German push down the Black Sea coastal highway from Novorossiisk in the western Caucasus also was reported, but details of that fight were lacking.

The Russians said they had captured a fortified German position in the Sinyavino area in the Lena.

Ralph McGill Named Editor of Constitution

Announcement was made yesterday by The Constitution Publishing Company that Ralph McGill, executive editor since 1938, had been named editor.

McGill has been with The Constitution for almost 15 years, coming as assistant sports editor. He was for some years sports editor. Before coming to the Constitution he was for nine years with the Nashville (Tennessee) Banner. He attended McCallie School and Vanderbilt University. McGill served as a private in the Marine Corps in World War I.

Thousands Purchase Service Stars Here

Those significant Silver Service Stars which tell such a patriotic story—"I have someone in the armed forces"—are shining from the lapels of Atlantans by ever-increasing thousands.

They are proudly worn by wives, sons, daughters, parents, sisters, brothers, uncles, aunts and sweethearts of men in Uncle Sam's Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard and other branches of service. They assure the worriers the folks back home haven't forgotten, and they tell the world we are justly proud of our fighting men.

The Constitution announced more than a week ago it would distribute these beautiful Service Stars as part of a national plan to make them available to everyone. Atlantans stopped by the front office for the emblems so rapidly that supplies were exhausted almost as fast as they came in. New shipments have just been received.

Uniformed men on the streets look for the tiny, five-pointed sterling silver stars. And you can see their chests swell with pride when they see them being worn. It gives their morale a lift, a morale so important to an army. The star is absolutely sterling silver, since silver is not a vital war material. They cost 20 cents each, plus a two-cent federal jewelry tax, if bought at the Want Ad counter at The Constitution. The price is 25 cents, including tax, if ordered by mail.

Peace Terms Are Sought by Madagascar

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Vichy French on Madagascar asked the British East Africa command for armistice terms tonight after less than a week of operations pressed inland from west coast landings secured by Imperial troops, planes and the Royal navy at dawn last Thursday.

The official announcement of overtures came from Vichy, which said Governor General Armand Annet at Tananarive had taken the initiative to ask the British commander his "intentions."

The French communique added, however, that resistance to the British continued, with "the battle still raging as violently as before." The French previously had spoken only of token resistance and the British advancing on the capital plateau had been slowed mainly by road blocks and inhospitable terrain.

The first word of the French desire for a cease-fire order and negotiations came from Tananarive in broadcasts overheard both on nearby British Mauritius and at Diego Suarez, the northern Madagascar naval base seized by the British in the initial operation last May designed to keep the strategic Indian ocean island out of Axis hands.

The German radio promptly denied that the French were suing for an armistice, but reversed itself later and, quoting Vichy, said the step had been taken in the face of "overwhelming superiority of (British) forces."

The German Transoceanic News Agency under a Vichy dateline said: "It is stated authoritatively that the governor general of Madagascar has asked the commander of the British forces to state the terms under which an armistice could be concluded. However, fighting is continuing."

A British communique said that the Imperials had advanced about halfway from the coastal points to Tananarive and that "remaining French forces" in a large northern sector had surrendered to converging forces landed a week ago at Ambanja and those newly put ashore at Maromandia.

Rita Hayworth Suffers 'Nervous Breakdown'

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Screen Actress Rita Hayworth went to Cedars of Lebanon hospital today, Dr. W. H. Manigault said, suffering from "a complete nervous breakdown."

She returned recently from a three-weeks tour of USO camp shows in Texas and had finished work on a picture just before leaving on the trip.

WHERE'S THE BARBER?—Long hours of duty in territory where there are no barbers and few facilities for keeping whiskers under control often result in the condition in which Captain Morgan A. Griffin here finds himself. Griffin mans a plane at an Alaskan jumping-off place for attacks on the Japs in the Aleutians.

John J. Foster Succumbs at 84

John J. Foster, 84, a retired groceryman, died Tuesday at a private hospital.

Born in Lumpkin county, Mr. Foster had been living with his daughter, Mrs. S. E. Hope, of 1438 DeKalb avenue, N. E., since his retirement 12 years ago.

Besides Mrs. Hope, he is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. J. C. Orr, of Winder, and Mrs. W. C. Stinchcomb, of South Carolina; and seven sons, Miles, J. H. and Mark Foster, of Atlanta; Homer and Edward Foster, of Decatur; and R. H. Foster, of Albany.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Union Baptist church, near Winder. Dr. Lester A. Brown will officiate and burial will be in the churchyard.

Election Tallies Give Victories To Incumbents

Battle Develops in N. J. as Senator Charges Nomination 'Bought'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The roster of candidates for the November 3 elections was near completion today, only conventions in Rhode Island and some runoffs in Louisiana remaining.

As the tallies in Tuesday's five state primaries were checked it was seen that incumbents for the most part won the victories and that nothing conclusive was proved by a candidate's attitude toward the administration's foreign policy prior to Pearl Harbor. Some were successfully attacked. Some were not.

It also was observed that unusually light balloting marked the nationwide preliminaries to the big autumn show.

Excitement in N. J.
Excitement prevailed in New Jersey political circles when Senator Smathers, Democrat, yesterday said he had asked a senate investigating committee to determine whether a Republican candidate had "bought" his nomination.

Albert W. Hawkes, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, won the Republican senatorial nomination from Gill Robb Wilson, state aviation director. Smathers, who will face Hawkes in November, said at Atlantic City that he had "the figures, supported by proof, on what he (Hawkes) paid for the nomination in several of the different counties," and had submitted this material to the committee.

Lodge Wins Easily.
With all but a few districts reported Hawkes got 129,395 votes to Wilson's 126,157.

Another highlight of the Jersey balloting was the close race of Representative Hartley, Republican, who won the 10th district re-nomination by only 50 votes from Mayor W. H. Williams, of Belleville, who had attacked Hartley as an isolationist before Pearl Harbor.

In Massachusetts Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., easily won Republican renomination, as did most house incumbents. Representative Casey, Democrat, won the Democratic senatorial nomination, and will oppose Lodge in the elections. Governor Leverett Saltonstall, Republican, was renominated without contest and Mayor Roger Lowell Putnam, of Springfield, Democrat, will oppose him.

Ferguson Wins.
Michigan Republicans picked Detroit's circuit judge, Homer Ferguson, for the senate over Gerald L. K. Smith, former Huey Long aide. Ferguson will oppose Senator Prentiss M. Brown, Democrat, in November.

Representative Clare Hoffman, Republican, whose criticism of the administration was attacked by Michigan opponents, was renominated, but Representative Tenenro, criticized for the same reason, trailed far behind former Representative Sadowski for the Democratic nomination.

Wisconsin Republicans renominated Governor Julius Heil for a third term over the opposition of two other candidates.

Doxey Defeated.
In New Hampshire Senator Styles Bridges and Governor Robert O. Blood, Republicans, were renominated. Bridges will enter the fall contest with Francis P. Murphy, Democrat, as an opponent. An upset in the state was the defeat of Representative Arthur Jenks by Chester E. Merrow, for the Republican house nomination. Merrow had charged that Jenks was an isolationist before Pearl Harbor.

Governor Robert A. Hurley, of Connecticut, was unanimously renominated by the Democrats yesterday, and will be opposed in November by former Governor Raymond E. Baldwin, Republican, who lost the election to Hurley two years ago.

In the Mississippi run-off primary James O. Eastland won the Democratic senatorial nomination, tantamount to election, from Senator Wall Doxey.

OPA Specialists Will Speak Here

The OPA price control meeting for Atlanta businessmen who supply a service in connection with a commodity will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, September 23, at the Ansley hotel.

Included in the regulation are 165 services ranging from aircraft maintenance, repair and rental, to repairing, rental or sharpening of hand tools, saws and lawnmowers. The provisions of the price control regulation will be explained by OPA price specialists. Arrangements for the meeting have been made by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and other trade associations are co-operating.

Valdosta Is Operating As Avoiding Induction

Arrest of James Hardy Touchton, of Valdosta, following indictment by a federal grand jury in Macon for refusing to be inducted into the Army, was announced last night by the Federal Bureau of Investigation here.

Touchton was taken into custody in Blythe, Cal. An experienced pilot, he was said to have once been employed as a civilian instructor of military pilot cadets. He will be returned to Valdosta, the FBI said.

FIRST WAAC RETURNS
—Miss Mary Freeman, of Newnan, has returned to Atlanta from the WAAC training school at Fort Des Moines, Iowa. One of the first members of the Woman's Army to visit home, Miss Freeman will leave tomorrow for New Orleans, where she will open a recruiting office.

WAAC Finds Woman's Army Most Pleasant

Third Officer Mary Freeman, of Newnan, Is Enthusiastic.

By CHRISTINE JONES.
"Being a WAAC is the most marvelous experience I have ever had." This was the enthusiastic comment of Third Officer Mary Freeman, one of the first members of the Woman's Army to return home.

Miss Freeman, whose home is in Newnan, came from Fort Des Moines, Iowa, Tuesday before continuing to New Orleans, where she will set up a recruiting office for the WAACs of the Eighth Corps Area.

A member of the first group of Georgia WAACs to report, Miss Freeman graduated August 31, after an eight-week course, which she found both interesting and pleasant.

"The girls at the Fort are attractive, and I really hated to leave," she added, "but the most satisfying thing about being a WAAC is the achievement you make and the wonderful opportunity you have of serving your country."

Of course there are many courses offered at the school which will be beneficial to every woman who receives the training. Teaching, stenography, clerking, cooking, mess management, motor corps service and general army administration are a few of the courses offered. The WAACs will use this training at home and abroad, even finding them of practical value after the war.

"Probably the most interesting experience I had while at Fort Des Moines was the military training which every WAAC undergoes," Miss Freeman smiled proudly. "We were trained by tough Army officers, who readily conceded that women make good soldiers, and it won't be long until these training officers are replaced by women who were trained along with me."

Before joining the WAACs, Miss Freeman was a lady farmer in Newnan. And she isn't completely alienated from her home state. She is very proud of her new home-town Governor.

British Bombers Strike Japanese in Mandalay

NEW DELHI, Sept. 16.—(AP)—British bombers, striking again at the Japanese in Mandalay, bombed buildings along the east bank of the Irrawaddy river and all returned safely, an RAF communiqué announced today.

Bad weather during the raid

Japanese in Mandalay

Monday was said to have prevented observation of the results of the attack on steamers and barges on the river.

Seven Japanese air raids on India, during April and May, killed and injured 285 persons, N. V. H. Symons, joint defense secretary, told the legislature today.

Starved, Tortured Greeks Fight Back At Axis Beasts

Starved and tortured, the people of Greece are fighting back as best they can and living for the day when they can openly turn on the Italians and Germans, Basil Vlavianos, publisher of the Greek National Herald in New York, declared here last night.

Vlavianos, here to attend the national convention banquet of the Order of Ahepa, has direct contact with Greek present day activities and is one of the best informed men in the country on internal affairs of Greece and the Middle East.

Your Eyes Amblyopia and Some of Its Causes.

By DR. L. N. HUFF.

Amblyopia, the name applied to that obscurity of sight which has no apparent defect of the organs, may be caused by a number of agents and can result in permanent impairment of the ability to see.

DR. L. N. HUFF

Some of the more frequent causes are: snow blindness; injurious exposure of the eyes to the sun (solar retinitis); exposure to strong electric lights (electric retinitis) as in welding; malaria; quinine poisoning; methyl-alcohol poisoning resulting from variable quantities of wood-alcohol in the form of cheap whiskeys, cordials, essences and other similar beverages which are adulterated with Columbian spirits, the trade name for rectified alcohol; inhalation of injurious fumes; atrophy of the optic nerve, and some diseases.

In all cases there is marked reduction of ocular powers, and if neglected too long total blindness can and may result. Sometimes the eye may appear normal.

Sometimes uremic amblyopia is caused by an attack of uremia. Amblyopia also may be congenital, or caused by excessive use of tobacco.

The general term is applied to impairment of vision, and includes visual defects caused by a variety of diseases or conditions.

There always is a strong tendency for spontaneous recovery, but the responsible cause should be attacked by intelligent and efficient methods. Delay may be extremely dangerous.

Most cases can be rectified if attacked promptly, but in some instances the organs become affected and fail to respond even to the most heroic measures.

Look to your eyes! Take care of the only pair of eyes you will ever have, and remember: "It's All in the Examination."

(One of a series of talks about your eyes written by Dr. L. N. Huff, specialist in eye refraction for over 30 years and president of the L. N. Huff Optical Company, 64 North Broad Street, Atlanta, Georgia.)

His newspaper has long been recognized as the leading Greek language anti-Fascist publication.

Guerrilla Bands.

Two guerrilla bands, one in south Greece under the command of Captain Douras, and the other in Crete under General Mantakas, keep the Fascists guessing where they will strike next, he said. For weapons the guerrillas use clubs, knives and the guns they can seize in raids on Axis camps.

"We have reason to believe a substantial number of British soldiers who escaped from Crete are serving with the Greeks," Vlavianos continued. "Reports also state that somehow the British are managing to smuggle in guns and shells."

Ten underground newspapers flourish in Greece under the very noses of the Germans and Italians, he said; Axis trains are wrecked, ammunition dumps blown up and communication lines destroyed.

Underground Reports.

Underground reports from Greece indicate that 1,500,000 men, women and children are starving, Vlavianos declared. Axis soldiers take what food there is, eat it in front of the starving population and toss Greeks the crumbs.

Some food has reached the Greeks from Canada through the Swedish Red Cross, he continued, adding: "The Germans did not touch this because they have plenty of food for themselves and if they had taken it many of the Greeks would have died on the spot."

Vlavianos believes it a good idea to send food to Greece whether it falls into Axis hands or not.

"Let the Germans or Italians touch that food and the Greeks would be stirred to greater passions than ever before," he said.

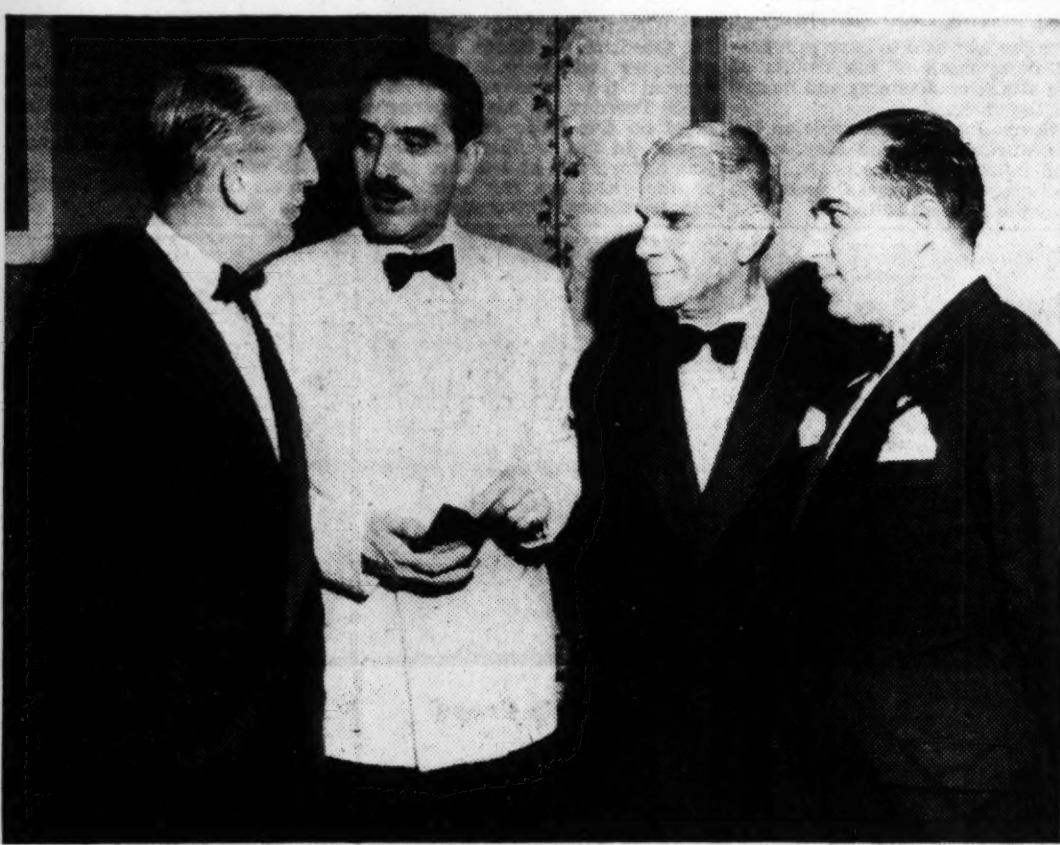

Eugene Casey, special executive assistant to President Roosevelt, brought the Ahepa a special message from the White House.

"You men and women gathered here from all parts of the United States offer stirring proof that America today stands as one," Casey said. "You are proof that within our country the will and strength that have sprung from many nations are now welded into one purpose, one spearhead aimed straight at the heart of an evil which free men can nowhere abide."

American Unity.

"One of the most thrilling aspects of American unity is the manner and spirit in which Americans of foreign origin have rallied to the cause of freedom. On the battlefronts of the world Americans of foreign birth have blazed their names in a language the enemy cannot misunderstand—the language of steel."

The common people of the world are united in this war, he said, because they believe "this is a people's war which will end in a people's victory."

"Victory will be ours—let no one doubt it," Casey said. "But it will not be a victory worthy of our heroic deed, if it saves the world as it was or is. It will set the stage for a new and more inspiring chapter in human history."

Banquet guests included Senator Richard B. Russell, the Rev. Archbishop Athenagoras, New York; Cimon Diamandopoulos, minister of Greece, Royal Greek legation in Washington; Stelios M. Dimitrakakis, Greek minister of justice.

Andrew Micholopoulos, Greek minister of information; Stavros Theophanides, Greek minister of Merchant Marine; Evangelos Serkis, Greek minister of education; Mayor Hartsfield and Edward B. Hitchcock, chief of the foreign section, war savings staff.

John Hudson Is Dead Here At Age of 70

Was President of Orme-wood Park Civic Club.

John L. Hudson, 70, president of the Orme-wood Park Civic Club, died suddenly yesterday at the residence, 791 Woodland avenue, S. E.

A United States railway mail clerk, Hudson was born in Tucker and came to Atlanta in 1892. He was an elder of the Orme-wood Presbyterian church and superintendent of the Sunday school. He also was warden of Civilian Defense and a past president of the Greater Atlanta Stamp Society.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Lily Hardy; and three daughters, Mrs. Russell McCullough, Mrs. Grant Wheeler and Miss Sarah Hudson.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Orme-wood Presbyterian church, with the Rev. John G. Kirkhoff officiating. Burial will be in Crest-lawn cemetery.

Officers of the church and Sunday school and members of the Stamp Society will serve as honorary escorts.

Freight Rate Ceiling Rapped At Convention

I. C. C. Has Authority To Protect Shipper, Southern Members Say.

Holding that the Interstate Commerce Commission "has enough authority to protect the shipper," members of the Southern Freight League, here for their 24th annual convention, yesterday went on record as opposing legislation to fix a ceiling on freight rates.

E. Del Wood, traffic manager of the Chattanooga Manufacturers' Association, was elected president of the league shortly before adjournment of the one-day session. O. H. Weaver, of Pomona Products Company, Griffin, Ga., was elected first vice president; J. T. Hiers, general agent of the Wilmington, N. C., port commission, was named second vice president; and T. M. Henderson, commissioner of the Nashville Freight Bureau, was re-elected executive secretary.

About 40 members of the league attended the meeting and spent the day in general discussion of freight rate changes brought about by orders issued by the Office of Defense Transportation. The convention was held at the Ansley hotel.

Conscript All, Crete, Tobruk Legion Urges Attacked by At Convention Allied Airmen

Commander Calls All-Out War Effort 'Piecemeal Process.'

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Conscription of all for war became the cornerstone tonight for the American Legion's first national convention since America entered the war.

Its national commander, Lynn U. Stambaugh, a Fargo, N. D., attorney, led the organization's renewed and vigorous demand for enactment of its long-sponsored universal service bill, authorizing the drafting of manpower, labor and industry alike for war.

Calling the all-out war effort "a piecemeal process so far," Stambaugh in an interview said the purpose of the three-day convention, opening Saturday, would be to arouse the nation to the urgent necessity of dropping everything for the war.

"The necessity for this is not something that is in prospect," the black-haired, dark-eyed commander said. "We are face to face with it now."

"The magnitude of the war, the strength and diabolical cunning of our enemies, their determination, and yes—let us be frank with ourselves—their superior skill at waging war—add up to only one thing. It will take everything we have to win the war and our failure to give our all means losing it."

He said the principle of universal service, as long advocated by the Legion, had been only partially adopted in the war effort, and added that his organization still stands "on the premises of equal service for all with excess profits to none."

"That," he said, "includes a complete ceiling on prices, profits and services in whatever field or in whatever classification. The sooner such a course is adopted, and the sooner it is put into motion, the less costly in men and material will be our victory."

As a reception committee met Stambaugh at the union station, the sight of soldier groups emphasized the present war for which the Legion has stripped its convention of all frills and play to further the all-out effort.

Clash Resumed In Mountains Of New Guinea

Japs Press Heavily on Allies Before Port Moresby.

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Thursday, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Serious fighting has resumed in the Owen Stanley mountains of eastern New Guinea, the Allied command reported today.

The Japanese, in a renewal of savage jungle warfare, are exerting severe pressure upon defense lines above Port Moresby, the big Allied base in the area, the communique said.

In return, Allied bombers attacked enemy centers at Buna, in northern New Guinea, and Rabaul, on New Britain island.

Brazil Orders Mobilization Of All Forces

Nation Can Put 250,000 Infantrymen Into the Field.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—President Getulio Vargas today ordered the mobilization of all Brazil's armed forces, three and a half weeks after the country had declared war on Germany and Italy.

He instructed reserves of the Army, Navy and Air Force to be ready to present themselves at their posts. The nation, capable of putting 250,000 trained infantrymen in the field, already has been put on a military basis.

Three categories of reserves were affected by the call-up: those who served at least one year of conscript service; those who received some training in shooting clubs and other semi-military groups; and those who were not called up for military service because the conscript ranks were filled.

The military service age in Brazil is from 21 to 45 and men outside that group presumably would not be called without special orders.

Hundreds of men between 21 and 45 years of age who have been volunteering in recent weeks were told by the Ministry of War they would be called when needed.

Some industries and utilities have begun training women to replace men at certain tasks. It was expected, however, that the flow of men to military service would be gradual in order to avoid a serious upset of industrial and raw material production.

Chiang Kai-shek Visits Northwest

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has visited northwest China, it was disclosed officially today.

Chiang returned to Chungking Monday after an absence of several weeks and immediately conferred with Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell, commander of Allied forces in China.

The generalissimo's visit to the northwest, in which he was accompanied by his wife, was stated to have been exceedingly important and to have covered a wide range of matters.

(Northwest China is in the avenue for supplies from Soviet Russia, of increased importance due to the closing of the Burma road avenue through the Japanese conquest of Burma.)

Still Too Much Loose Talk, Army Says

"Close your trap and whip a Jap" has been a slogan since the war began. Still there's too much loose talk on military matters, the Army said yesterday.

Reports of gross indiscretion and carelessness in discussing matters pertaining to troop movements, military operations and plans have been made to the War Department recently, pointed out Major General William Bryden, commanding general of the Fourth Service Command.

He said loose talk in clubs, trains, buses and other places is direct aid to the enemy, causing loss of lives and natural resources and retarding the successful prosecution of the war.

All civilian and military personnel of the War Department are prohibited from discussing or commenting on matters concerning the war effort or military service, General Bryden said. He urged the public to help safeguard all information of a military nature.

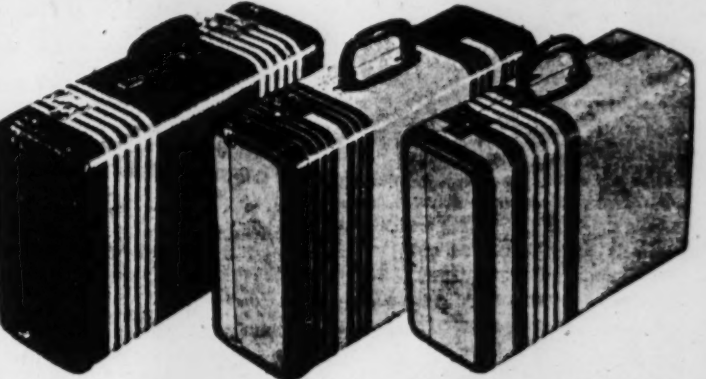

WPB Will Requisition Unessential Rail Tracks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Railroad tracks deemed unessential to movement of troops and war supplies at their present locations will be moved to points where they can be used for that purpose, Donald M. Nelson said today.

The War Production Board chairman made the statement in announcing that rails of the Elkhart and Santa Fe line from Boise City, Okla., to Farley, N. M., had been requisitioned to provide trackage for naval supply depots on the Pacific coast.

Beautiful Interiors
Surprisingly Low Cost

This wonder paint, called Perma-Tone, makes drab, colorless rooms so bright, light and livable they aren't recognizable. A new kind of paint, paste form, that covers most any surface, old or new, with one coat, and dries in 1 hour.

Available in White, Ivory, Cream, Pastel Green, Rose, Light Yellow and Light Blue.

1 Gal. Covers Average Size Rooms

Thins with water—
No expensive paint thinners needed when you use Perma-Tone. Just add plain water—mix—and you're ready to go to work.

Covers with 1 coat
One coat of Perma-Tone covers and hides most surfaces, including wall paper. It brushes on smoothly, easily and quickly.

Dries in one hour
Perma-Tone is extra fast drying. Paint your rooms in the morning and move your furnishings back in again in the afternoon.

Really washable—
A soft cloth, some soap and plain water is all you need to make Perma-Toned walls as clean as the day they were painted.

Most Economical Finish
Mix one gallon of Perma-Tone with half-gallon of plain water and it is ready to apply. Goes on smooth as velvet—no brush or lap marks—no "painty" odor. When soiled, just wash with soap and water.

If you have rooms that need refinishing, but have put off doing them because of the cost, use economical Perma-Tone. Material for average size room (1 gallon) costs only $2.75. Almost as cheap as kalsomine but far more effective and durable.

HALF A MAN
EQUALS
60 TAXICABS

Busier than ever before, more urgently needed than ever before, our Taxicabs are nevertheless growing scarcer than ever before. This brings on the vital necessity to make each cab do full duty every time it runs.

Right now our cabs average 2½ passengers per trip. That's a lot more than it used to be. But it isn't enough.

Half a passenger more per trip, average, would be the same as putting 60 new cabs into service. Put another way, it would save 20% of the miles we have to run on precious rubber.

If Taxicabs were not so extremely necessary to Atlanta, our problem would be simpler. But the way this town is laid out, you simply must have cabs to get places. We never expected a day when motor cars would be impossible to get, so we never supplied cross-town transport.

If we have to shelve Taxicabs, you'll be in a bad spot. It will add hours to many trips. It will be actually dangerous when there is no cab for certain emergency trips that come, sooner or later, into every life.

We are doing our best to keep 'em rolling—but you'll have to help by planning your trips ahead of time, and letting our Dispatching Switchboard know early when you need a Taxicab.

Century-Old Decatur Still Goes To Scrap

A solid copper whisky still which had been in the family for more than a century yesterday was donated to the Decatur scrap drive by Charles D. Livsey, of 263 Cambridge avenue.

The still, which weighs 50 pounds, was owned by Green H. Livsey, great-grandfather of Charles D. Livsey. The great-grandfather, who lived on a Wilkes county farm, moved to Gwinnett county in 1838. When he died shortly after moving the still was given to his son, Charles W. Livsey, who later passed it on to Franklin I. (Mink) Livsey, father of Charles D. Livsey.

The still was registered out of use with the government in 1900.

'Wake Island' Bond Tickets Hit $700,000

which is headed by Milton War-

Thrilling Drama. "Wake Island" the picture, is Paramount's thrilling dramatization of the 14 days in December when a handful of American Marine and naval fighting men beat back a sea-borne host of 10,000 Japs. It will begin a regular engagement at the Fox theater Friday.

One of the great war pictures, its story is based on the factual record of the Wake Island battle now in the files of the Navy Department. It shows both sides of that epic conflict, Jap and American, with a dramatic realism that brings the theater-goer face to face with the hard realities of war.

Lusty Humor. Yet its grim story is relieved by humor—the meaty, hearty humor of fighting men, and by romance that tells the story of men dying without a murmur, remembering the sweethearts, the wives and the children they left behind them.

Brian Donlevy plays the role of the heroic Major Devereaux, commander of the Wake Marines, supported by Walter Abel, MacDonald Carey, and Rob Preston.

WRONG ANGLE—Picking their way along the sloping flight deck of the crippled aircraft carrier Yorktown, hard-fighting crewmen head for damaged sections of the ship to see if they can patch the injuries that cause the serious listing. Efforts to salvage the vessel were frustrated, however, when Jap submarines sank the ship.

CRIPPLED WARRIOR—Smoking from fires below, listing heavily, but still afloat, the U. S. aircraft carrier Yorktown rides out a heavy bomb and torpedo plane attack made by the Japanese in the Battle of Midway June 4. Later the carrier was sunk by torpedoes from a Jap submarine after the crew had abandoned ship.

Saga of Yorktown Stunning Drama of Gameness

(Editor's Note: An Associated Press reporter, now back from the war zone, was on a cruiser with the United States Pacific fleet during the entire battle of Midway and witnessed the game stand of the carrier Yorktown which the Navy today announced as sunk. Following are excerpts from his log of that day and his impressions of the epic battle.)

By WENDELL WEBB.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The destruction of the carrier Yorktown, announced by the Navy in Washington today, provided one of those patently indelible memories of war that bring on cold sweats in the dead of night.

It happened more than three months ago—months in which there was good reason to believe the Japanese did not know the ship was sunk—but the stunning drama of the moment has never faded.

Flashing cannon, the great belch of shells, hammering machine-guns, the incredible din of fighting planes and the fire power of the entire fleet—it isn't these that disturb the sleep. Nor is it the bullets splattering around the bridge, the glistening geysers from exploding bombs, the flames of falling planes. It is none of the commonplace of war.

Unforgettable Sight.

Rather, it's the unforgettable sight, in the terrible after-quiet of battle, of a ship that refused to die, a ship that played as valiant a part in as great a victory as this nation ever had, a ship whose very existence was a prime reason the flag of the Rising Sun never came closer than 3,000 miles from the American west coast in the rip-and-tuck Battle of Midway.

From notes scrawled aboard a cruiser during the epic events of last June 4, I find such memos as these:

"We watch the Yorktown. It's listing more and more. It doesn't look as if it can make it. There are tears in some of these gunners' eyes. They feel it was their fault the torpedoes got through. I think they did their best. They have only had a sandwich and an apple in 10 hours.

Desire To Do Something.
"One of the cruiser's pilots is swearing softly. The knuckles of an officer's hand show white as he grips a bullet-splattered rail.
"There she goes. No, it was just a swell. She seems to be holding. But the war is only a couple of feet from her open deck. Her rails are lined with men. There goes the first one overboard. He jumped from the stern. There go the ropes. Men are sliding down them. Small boats go overboard.

Midway Loss Of Yorktown Is Announced

In launching their torpedoes before they too were destroyed and the resulting hits put the Yorktown completely out of action.

"The most distinct memory I have of the moment is that every gun on the Yorktown was blazing. Webb wrote a few hours after experiencing the hell of this battle. "She was putting up a scrap if any ship ever did."

The Yorktown was so badly damaged she listed dangerously and naval officers feared she would capsize then and there. Her flight deck was, of course, useless but her aircraft in the air were ordered to continue the fight from the decks of other carriers.

Captain Elliott Buckmaster, 52, of Columbus, Ohio, who had skippered the Yorktown and her winged brood through a brilliant performance in the Coral sea, ordered "abandon ship." Webb, from the vantage point of a cruiser, saw men swarm down ropes and drop into the water where they grabbed life belts "tossed from all sides" until rafts and boats picked them up for transfer to other ships of the task force.

Salvage forces then took over and tugs and other ships began the tedious job of getting the Yorktown back to port.

Meanwhile, the Yorktown's planes had located the Hiryu and the other half of a carrier duel which has become classic in this Pacific war quickly developed. Hit repeatedly, the Hiryu was left blazing from stem to stern and sank the next morning. These same planes also pounded two enemy battleships and a heavy cruiser.

On the second day of ceaseless struggle with the Yorktown, officers finally decided they had a good chance to save her and the destroyer Hammann was placed alongside to assist in the work. But shortly after noon the Jap submarine attacked. Two torpedoes hit the Yorktown amidships and two more hit the Hammann. The little destroyer sank very quickly. The condition of the carrier rapidly became critical and the next morning, ripped and ragged as she was, she capsized and sank.

Thus ended the Yorktown after four and a half years of peace-time service and six months of valiant performance in war.

Churchill Praises Spirit of Chinese
LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—"Victory is certain," Prime Minister Churchill said in a message to Chiang Kai-shek, released today for publication. The message was a reply to a note sent by the Chinese Generalissimo on the September 3 anniversary of Britain's declaration of war.

"I welcome your tribute all the more, coming as it does from the leader of a courageous, steadfast people who have already withstood the onslaught of the Japanese aggressor for more than five long years," the prime minister wrote. "Their resistance owes much, as the British people well know, to your excellency's resolution and unswerving loyalty to the cause of freedom to which we have both consecrated all our energies."

"With such a cause to inspire us victory is certain, and when that day dawns, as dawn it will, the British people will be proud to acclaim the Chinese as fellow architects of victory."

WRITE FOR ILLUSTRATED BOOKLET

There's a deathly silence on this cruiser. We wonder how many have died.
"It doesn't seem this can be true. There's no excitement. I find myself suddenly brimming with an overpowering desire to do something, anything. There's nothing to do. An ensign says we'll probably have to sink the Yorktown ourselves. I don't want to watch it."

Survivors Picked Up.
"Most of the survivors have been picked up. Small boats are after the remainder. They are taken to various ships still circling. There are two planes on the Yorktown's tilting deck.
"We learn we are not to sink her. Maybe the Yorktown will make port. We start to talk a bit.
"God knows she's earned a right to live," a warrant officer mutters.
"We start moving away. The fleet gets into formation. No more Japs have shown up. The Yorktown seems to slip away in the dusk, a couple of ships still with her. It's hard not to keep looking at that fading silhouette."

It was soon too dark to see any more, and we finally went down on deck.
Japs Sound Unhappy.
The Japs' attitude up to the abandoning of the game ship already have been told.
From early morning until late at night the Pacific fleet, admittedly outpowered, had hurled its aerial strength in wave after wave at the would-be invaders. We counted the planes as they took off, and we counted them as they returned. They didn't all get back. But we knew, as reports came in, that they'd struck first and hard.

We could hear excited Japanese voices on the radio. They didn't sound happy. We heard that the force on near-by Midway also had taken a terrific toll, that Army planes were in the thick. Our jubilation grew as the day wore on. Then came the final two Japanese attacks of the entire battle.

Carrier Set Afire.
The first, about 2 p. m., was by dive bombers and set the Yorktown afire. She barely was visible through the smoke as our cruiser waited near-by in the wreckage-strewn waters. We thought she was gone, and there was a tense hour of watching while the smoke gradually lessened. It seemed almost unbelievable when the Yorktown finally got underway.

The second attack—by more than a score of dive bombers and torpedo planes—came almost at the same instant the Yorktown's remaining planes were roaring off her deck as she picked up sufficient speed to launch them.

Then there was a five-minute hell of noise, flashing planes, long streaks of fire in the skies, the jolts of exploding bombs, and almost solid trails of tracer bullets as, one by one, the enemy craft dropped into the sea. They died, but never faltered, under the hail of shells and bullets from our own fighter planes and the whole fleet's guns.

They pressed their attack home, all right—probably three of them, but we didn't think even one got away. And if they did they had no place to land—their own carrier was being blasted to pieces at the same time.

It was then the stillness became deafening, emotions unruly. It was then there came a sudden recognition of the love a man can bear for a ship at sea.

These are the parts of the battle of Midway that were re-lived over our long-delayed coffee that night in the hushed wardroom of a cruiser that was heading straight for more trouble—and with a crew grimly set on exacting a user's interest for the sight they'd just seen.

We knew at that time, however, that the Japanese already had paid an awful price for their attempt to bulge their power into the east. But no man who saw the Yorktown will ever think they paid too much.

Louis Mayer's Salary Tops Treasury List

Salaries of Other Big Hollywood Names Are Given.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Louis B. Mayer, an immigrant from Russia who hit the jackpot in Hollywood, still tops the treasury's select company of persons receiving more than $75,000 a year.

Mayer's $704,425.60 salary and bonus from Loew's, Incorporated, for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1941, the treasury list published today showed, was $138,131.34 more than the second-place man, Thomas J. Watson, received as president of International Business Machines Corporation. Mayer has been at the top for several years.

Farther down the list were the two salaries Singer Bing Crosby received. Paramount Pictures, Incorporated, paid Crosby $302,314.81 and Universal Pictures Company, Inc., paid him $150,000, a total of $452,314.81.

Actress Irene Dunne appeared in the list three times with salaries

2-Man Japanese Submarine Will Work for U.S.—On Land

MARE ISLAND, Cal., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A two-man Japanese suicide submarine is going to work on land for the United States.

The submersible, which arrived aboard a U. S. merchant ship, was captured last December 7 at Pearl Harbor and now will go on a nationwide tour to boost war bond sales. An itinerary will be announced soon.

The Navy said the 70-foot craft was capable of carrying enough explosives to blow up two city blocks, but that its construction and equipment indicated it was "truly a suicide detail."

"They just shoved those Japs inside with the idea they weren't coming out again," one visitor said after squeezing into the contrivance.

The craft's officer was taken prisoner on a beach of the island of Oahu after he had pitched through the conning tower and swam ashore. His one-man crew never was located.

Loew's report showed some varying fortunes among the stars on its payroll. Jeannette MacDonald's salary dropped from $300,000 in 1940 to $173,333.34 in 1941. But Clark Gable got a raise from $298,544.73 in 1940 to $357,500.00 last year. Yow, however, he is getting a corporal's pay in the Army Air Corps.

Some others who like Gable were paid in six figures also receive military pay now. Among them are the Navy's Robert Montgomery, who was paid $211,416.66 by Loew's last year and $191,250 the year before, and the Marine's Tyrone Power, whose checks from Twentieth-Century Fox in 1940 added up to $169,009.00.

R. T. Miller Sr., Cement Expert, Succumbs Here

Funeral Services Will Be Conducted This Afternoon.

Ralph T. Miller Sr., 61, of 98 Peachtree Memorial drive, N. W., widely recognized cement expert, died here yesterday.

Born and reared in Cotesville, Pa., he was initially connected with the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory. He founded the steel and cement testing bureaus and opened several branch offices during the 18 years he was with that firm.

He organized the Hermitage Portland Cement Company at Nashville, Tenn., and the Cumberland Cement Company at Cowan, Tenn. He is also a former member of the Bureau of Standards in Washington and the American Society of Testing Materials.

For the past 12 years Mr. Miller had been with the International Paper Company. He came to Atlanta six years ago as southern sales manager for the company.

He was a member of the Masons and Elks here and of the Engineers' Club of Chicago. Survivors include his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Lewis V. Emery, of New Orleans, La.; two sons, Ralph T. Miller Jr., of Atlanta, and Private William G. Miller, of the United States Marine Corps, and two grandchildren, Gray Emery, of New Orleans, and Katharine C. Miller, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill with the Rev. H. E. Russell officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Nazis Threaten To Deport All In Luxembourg

Germans Say They Will Use Own Workers in Iron Mines.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Nazi conquerors of Luxembourg are beginning deportations in efforts to stop anti-German activity in the little Grand Duchy, a Reuters dispatch from a German frontier point reported tonight.

The dispatch said Nazi commissions are compiling "black lists" of Luxembourgers known to be loyal to the grand duchess, and it was reported reliably that the first batch already has been rounded up.

The Germans were quoted as saying they were prepared to deport the entire population (296,913 in 1935) if necessary and bring in German workers to keep the iron mines running.

Luxembourg ranked high as a steel producing center before the war but since the German occupation production was said to have dropped from 2,000,000 tons annually to 700,000.

The Luxembourgers last week began a general strike in protest against incorporation of the Grand Duchy into the German Reich and the call of three classes of youths to the Nazi armed forces.

Nursemaid Fails In Kidnap Attempt

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—P. E. Foxworth, assistant FBI director, said tonight that a nursemaid's attempt to extort $30,000 from a wealthy Pelham, N. Y., family by kidnapping a four- and one-half-year-old child failed when the nursemaid lost her courage.

Foxworth said that the nurse, Kathryn Batheider, 23, employed by Albert G. Joyce Jr., of Pelham, was taken into custody Tuesday. The nurse, Foxworth said, held the Joyce's daughter for 12 hours while she attempted to extort $30,000 from the child's grandmother, Mrs. Emily Flippen, of Dallas, Texas, who was visiting the Joyce home.

Primary Results Will Be Declared

Robert Ramspeck, congressman from the fifth Georgia district, will be declared the nominee of the September 9 primary at ceremonies scheduled for 11 o'clock Saturday morning in the senate chamber of the state capitol, it was announced yesterday.

Tom Camp, Ramspeck's executive secretary, yesterday was preparing a list of delegates to the convention, and said the fifth district Democratic congressional executive committee also will be present to declare results of the primary.

Afterwards, Ramspeck will entertain delegates and committee members at a dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Dublin Catholic Pastor Goes to New Orleans

DUBLIN, Ga., Sept. 16.—The Rev. L. L. Toups, pastor of the Catholic church of the Immaculate Conception, of Dublin, has been transferred to New Orleans, where he will be connected with the Jesuit High school, it was announced today.

The Rev. Joseph G. Cassidy, of Milledgeville, will serve the Dublin church temporarily, church officials announce.

The Rt. Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, bishop of the Savannah-Atlanta diocese, is expected to make an announcement of a permanent pastor for the church within the next few weeks.

500 Atlantans Remember Yorktown Well

The Yorktown, reported yesterday as having been sunk in June, is remembered well by 500 Atlantans who visited it soon after the aircraft carrier was commissioned about five years ago.

The kids—they were between 12 and 16 at the time—were members of the Atlanta Schoolboy Patrol, and they were taken aboard the ship at Norfolk where they stopped en route to a convention at Washington.

The late Captain Jack Malcolm, of the Atlanta police department, was in charge of the party.

Flames Sweep Construction Firm Building

A fire of undetermined origin last night swept through the Smith-Pew Construction Company building on Metal drive, near Piedmont road, destroying records and causing considerable damage.

Captain J. C. Hardy, of the Buckhead fire station, said the flames "virtually destroyed" the right side of the two-story building and that fire and water caused "considerable damage to company records stored in the basement."

The fire gained headway, he said, because firemen had to connect their hoses to fire plugs on Piedmont road, several hundred feet away. A large crowd gathered.

Curtis J. Sain, 59, War Vet, Is Dead

Curtis J. Sain, 59, of 363 Windsor street, S. W., a veteran of the Spanish-American War and World War I, died yesterday at the residence.

He is survived by his wife; two sisters, Mrs. A. D. Mathis and Mrs. J. W. Zeller, and one brother, C. V. Sain, of Huntsville, Ala. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon, with the Rev. J. M. Harkey officiating. Burial will be in Marietta National cemetery.

Plane Crashes Into Alabama Hill, Killing 6

Ship Hits Mountain Peak 20 Miles From Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Six men were killed today in the crash of an Army plane on Double Oak mountain, approximately 20 miles southeast of Birmingham.

The Birmingham Army Air Base tentatively identified the craft as a B26 twin-engine medium bomber. Identity of the dead was not established immediately.

The ship struck the mountain peak approximately 400 yards from the Birmingham-Childersburg highway. Access to the spot was difficult and crews from the Air Base here and state highway patrolmen were hampered in their investigations.

Apparently, the plane crashed into one mountain peak after turning sharply to avoid another. It struck in a rocky area, covered by mountain oaks.

First news of the accident came in a call to the state highway patrol from an unidentified motorist who witnessed the crash as he drove along the mountain highway.

Double Oak's many rocky peaks are among the highest in the Appalachian foothills in northeastern Alabama. Many of them rise from narrow valleys for several hundred feet.

Drivers To Be Shamed For Exceeding Speed

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Now comes the "Three Blast Club" to shame drivers into keeping within a 40-mile-an-hour speed limit.

Karl Fischer, Iowa public safety commissioner, today urged motorists to sound three sharp blasts of their horns when a driver passes them going more than 40 miles an hour.

They would be blasts of disapproval at an "un-American attitude," he asserted.

Soldier Sentenced To Electric Chair

TIFTON, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Private Joel Luther Palmer, of Eglin Field, Fla., today was sentenced to death in the electric chair for the slaying of Police Chief Joe Henderson here July 18.

Superior Judge R. E. set November 6 as the execution date. Palmer was convicted without a mercy recommendation by a Tift county superior court jury yesterday and defense counsel has filed a new trial plea.

Chief Henderson was killed and Police Officer Mercer Denby later died from wounds he received during the running gun battle along Main street here.

ATLANTA, GA., SEPTEMBER 17, 1942.

While Congress Fiddles

President Roosevelt has warned the congress that action must be taken, no later than October 1, to halt the inflationary rise in the cost of living. He has called for congressional action by that date to place specific ceilings on farm prices and to stabilize wages at present levels.

It is now more than a week since this warning was delivered to the congress. Now, two resolutions, both seeking the desired end, have been introduced, one in the house and one in the senate. The two, however, differ in their provisions. It would be difficult, under the rules of parliamentary procedure, to enact even a single bill or resolution in law in the time remaining. When two must go through the process of adjustment to each other, the task becomes a practical impossibility.

It has been made painfully evident in recent weeks that the primary cause motivating congressional reactions is the coming election in November. Too many congressmen seem to be more concerned about votes when they seek re-election, than in the welfare of the nation—even than in the winning of the war.

It is, therefore, extremely interesting to note the reaction of the people generally, the voters, to the inflation-control message of the President.

That ever-reliable test tube of public opinion, the Gallup Poll, has just completed a survey of public sentiment on this question. It finds that in five leading cities, spotted all over the country, from 73 to 87 per cent favor keeping wages, salaries and the prices of farm products from going any higher. In the mid-west a vote among farmers showed 71 per cent in favor and only 7 per cent opposed.

Both in the cities and rural areas a small percentage qualified their answers. As might be expected, most of these making conditional answers were either farmers who wanted wages controlled but not farm prices, or industrial workers who wanted farm prices held down but not wages.

With such an overwhelming percentage in favor of the controls requested by the President, it would seem congress could best serve both its own popularity with the voters and the nation's war effort by simply granting blanket authority to President Roosevelt to control both wages and farm prices.

Time and time again the President has been proven to have been right in policies he advocated, while his congressional critics have been wrong. It is time these critics learned they would serve better by reposing greater trust and confidence in his judgment and suppressing their own ambitions to shine as world prophets or economic experts until after the war is over, at least.

Be Careful!

Householders confronted with the decision of the city to eliminate the collection of yard trash will have to exercise great care if they are to follow the suggestion that it now be burned.

Unless this care is taken, there is danger of fires resulting from inept burning of this trash.

With the ban on sale of chemical nitrogen for lawns and shrubs and flowers, the gardener will find this trash valuable in the building of compost for use in the gardens and on the lawns. Well-rotted, much of this trash affords a soil supplement well worth the slight effort needed to properly prepare it.

But, before burning the trash, the householder will want to use every precaution against the spread of fire, particularly in the fall season when dry leaves are on the ground and the slightest spark could cause a major conflagration. The fire department already is overburdened with fire calls in the fall, and any sudden increase in the number of these blazes can have serious results.

Grim intimations of the war's eventual cost appear in the latest of the fireless chats. It may be years before there are bluebirds over Morgenthau.

A Georgia Boy

In every branch of the fighting services, in all grades and ranks, Georgians are writing bright, new pages of battle heroism as the story of the war is written in fire and blood and death. It is impossible, almost, to glance at a newspaper today without finding stories of official recognition of heroic deeds performed by men and youths who were, not so long ago, neighbors in the cities, towns and rural areas of this state.

Now another Georgian, long distinguished in the service of his country, has been placed in supreme command of all our naval air forces in the Pacific arena of war. Rear Admiral John H. Towers, of Rome, Ga., has been named to the new post of "Commander of Air Force, Pacific Fleet." He leaves his post as chief of the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics to take the new battle assignment.

Admiral Towers has for years been recognized as the number one naval aviator of the United States. The Navy Department adds emphasis to his distinction by describing his new assignment as "the most important air command afloat in the Navy."

Admiral Towers is but one of thousands of native Georgians who are serving without regard to personal safety on the far-flung battle areas of the world-wide war. He will meet many Georgians on his new assignment.

When the war is won the sons of Georgia will have reason to be proud of the part they played in this struggle against the new barbarism.

No Damage

A development foreseen by Army and Navy officers and U. S. Forest Service officials was quickly and efficiently met when what apparently was a Japanese incendiary bomb set fire to a western forest. Plans were laid immediately after Pearl Harbor to meet the threat of Japanese-planted fires, whether by saboteurs in this country or from aerial attack.

The Japanese plane evidently was submarine-borne to within striking distance of the west coast. Witnesses described it as a small plane, pontoon-equipped. This description is verified by the fact the bomb load was a small one and the supposed carrier-submarine was spotted 30 miles off the coast.

The carrying of planes on large submarines is not a new development. Several nations have experimented with them, although generally they have been discarded as unsatisfactory in relation to the benefits to be obtained. They must be small and consequently cannot operate with any degree of success except in such isolated instances as that of the Oregon bombing of last Wednesday.

Yet the Japanese lean toward suicidal procedures and so it may be expected other such attacks will be made. But their danger is slight, their effect negligible.

Needed Decision

Late, but necessary, is the authorization given the Civil Service Commission permitting transfer of government employees from one agency to another without the consent of the employer or his superiors.

With the needs of the war agencies paramount, it is idle to discuss the wisdom of the authorization. Thousands of inexperienced employees have been channeled into the war agencies, while other branches of the government virtually have been left to fend for themselves. Thousands of employees have been sent into an already crowded Washington when shifts within agencies could have saved millions of dollars and much confusion.

Peacetime agencies naturally do not need large staffs in the face of budget slashes that have been made and which may yet be expected.

About the only questions necessary are why it hasn't been done before, and why it hasn't been possible to effect the shifts with the voluntary consent of those involved.

Georgia Editors Say:

THE PARENTS' PART (From The Dawson News.)

Another school year begins, and for the vast army of school boys and girls the time ahead holds much which has not characterized the routine of their work in other years. Particularly will be this be true with the high school students, for their minds will be turned toward events which grip their hearts and stir their most vivid imagination. And therein lies a great obligation on the part of parents.

In order for these pupils to turn their minds, first of all, to wholehearted efforts in the school room, there must be a large degree of sane living, and the word is used advisedly, in the homes. It will be absolutely impossible for a student to put his or her mind on lessons when talk of war on the part of the parents fills the family conversation day in and day out. Few parents, it is regretted, provide for a period during which their children can quietly turn to problems they must consider as they prepare their lessons. Generally, lessons are prepared in the family living room where conversation centers on whatever chances to be uppermost in the minds of elders, and this is not conducive to clear thinking on the part of these young people who are preparing for the future.

Certainly we will all talk war, think war and participate in whatever efforts we may, but those parents who do not strive as they never have before, to give their boys and girls a normal atmosphere in the home, will fall in one of their most important obligations.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

JAP ATROCITIES WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—After the experience our Marines have had with the Japs in the Solomon Islands it is possible to believe the worst atrocity stories that have come out of the war.

One of our squadron leaders told of seeing the Japs bayonet to death some of the Marines left wounded on the field after a skirmish. No effort was made to save the helpless fellows. They were just bayoneted to death in cold blood.

Other Japs, pretending to be wounded, would lie still on the ground until a first-aid crew approached. Then they would blow up with grenades whose shrapnel came to them. Early after we occupied the Solomons, a Japanese major walked into a Marine camp one day with his hands up in surrender. He told the Marine officer in charge that a band of 70 of his men were beyond the sentry lines and wanted to give themselves up. The Marine officer sent a squad of 20 men to bring in the prisoners. The men were led into an ambush by the treacherous Jap. Practically all of them were killed.

One of the most atrocious acts in the islands' occupation came in connection with the surrender of a hospital. Now a hospital, under the international code that all civilized nations are supposed to follow, is immune as a target. Neither is it supposed to be used for offensive or defensive purposes. Yet when the Marines approached to take over the structure, they were met in the foreground by Japanese nurses. Then the nurses and Marines both were mowed down by machinegun fire from windows of the building.

WHY NO WOUNDED All of this offers some explanation of why we didn't take many prisoners in the Solomons battle. After being caught by a few of the Jap tricks at the start, our men took the precaution that every Jap soldier found on the field of battle was dead before they turned their backs on him. Significantly enough, the naval communique telling of the repulse of the counter-invasion force sent to the islands by the Japs didn't list any wounded. It said simply that out of a force of 700 reaching the islands we killed 670 and took 30 prisoners.

Even before the stories of the Japanese treachery got back it was evident to military men reading the casualty figures that something had happened to stir up the Marines. Ordinarily in any battle three or four men are wounded for every man killed. There weren't any wounded Japs listed in the Solomons.

It is not easy for the civilian to believe all of the atrocity stories that come out of war. Being remotely removed from the scene, they simply cannot understand the mass cruelties perpetrated, the inhumanity of it all. There is too much disposition to attribute the stories to propaganda. Perhaps some of them have been exaggerated in the past.

POSITIVE EVIDENCE But the evidence collected against the Japs so far warrants putting them in the worst possible category. There is little doubt that they are capable of inconceivable acts of cruelty. We are dealing with a half-civilized, mentally deficient race of people who seem utterly devoid of the normal human emotions. Some of the tortures to which British and American prisoners in China have been subjected are beyond description.

The Germans, if we can believe the Russians, are little better. Although they are a cultured and highly civilized people during peacetime, war seems to bring out the worst traits in them. Some of the stories vouchered for by the Russian government are absolutely unbelievable.

PRISONERS TORTURED For example, here is a passage from a new book by the famous Russian author, Mikhail Sholokhov, entitled "The Science of Hatred," reviewed by Moscow communique released in Washington by the Soviet embassy:

"In a ravine we came across a place where they had tortured Red army men who had been taken prisoner. Have you ever been in a butcher shop? That is just what this place looked like. On the branches of the trees growing about the ravine hung blood-stained trunks of arms and legless bodies with half the skin torn away. In a separate heap were the dead bodies of ten men. It was impossible to say which man the parts belonged to. It was just a heap of flesh cut up into large pieces. . . . Words can't describe all that I saw. You need to see it with your own eyes."

The author told of what happened to Russian soldiers who are taken prisoner. On the march back to camps those who are wounded and unable to carry on, fall by the way. They are shot when they fall. Escaped Russian prisoners have brought back terrifying stories of Nazi torture. It is hard to believe, but war is like that.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Needless Waste. Acquaintance of mine who is in one of the service businesses for homes, tells me he has experienced no profit that the average Atlanta householder is awake to the necessity for conserving gas and tires. That is, if the said gasoline and tires are not in, or on, their own cars.

"Recently," he said, "I was asked to visit a certain home and make an estimate for a job of work there. It was a long drive from my place of business, but I hated to disappoint the customer, who had seen my advertisement in The Constitution."

"So I went to the place. I found that three other firms in the same line of work had already submitted estimates on the job and, after I had submitted my estimate, the woman told me she had asked still another two firms to make estimates and she would notify me if I got the job. The whole thing only amounted to some $10 or $12, at that."

That sort of thing, he continued, is typical. Householders with some small job for the plumber, the electrician, the painter, or decorator, seem to call every firm in the directory and ask each to send out a man to make an estimate. The result is that, as in the case above, six different automobiles or trucks burn gasoline and wear out tires merely making an estimate, before the job is even begun. In many cases the size of the job makes it unprofitable even for the one who finally secures it.

Merely Thoughtless. Of course, this wasteful trick is more thoughtlessness on the part of the householders. They just don't think, haven't fully realized the tragic seriousness of our rubber shortage in connection with the war. They haven't learned, deep in their consciousness, that every ounce of rubber unnecessarily used makes it that much easier for the Axis to win this war.

Even in normal times it is unwise and silly to ask for an unwise raft of estimates on the average small job. The man or woman who gets such estimates from half a dozen or more firms will probably give the job to the one who offers to do it cheapest and the result is that the job finally done will be like the cheapest and, quite likely, altogether unsatisfactory.

It is rarely advisable to ask for more than two estimates, even in normal times and, if an established, reliable firm is contacted, it is often better to trust that firm and just give them the job without asking for any competitive bids.

How'll you know they are reliable? Well, one pretty good rule is to select a firm which advertises in your newspaper regularly. A man can't afford to continue advertising if the work he does fails to live up to the statements in his adv. copy.

Relic of Long Ago. Looking out of the window of a tenth story office, the other day, I saw, across the street, an old, old residence. I don't know its name, but from street level, because the front lawn has been occupied by one-story business places, billboards, etc.

It is a red brick, three-story structure, ornate with architectural trimming that was popular in the last century. Now it is faded and weatherbeaten, but it was easy to picture it when it was the new home of one of Atlanta's most prominent and wealthiest families, of that time.

At the rear still stands a stable and coachhouse, with quarters on the second floor for coachman and groom. To one side is the servant house and imagination pictured the Negro servants going and coming to the big house. You could almost see a shiny victoria and some high-stepping carriage horse being led from the stable to be backed between the shafts.

Even his relatives with jobs out of turn when other members were unemployed, a perfectly natural thing to do.

The attorney for the plaintiffs said he had a lot more charges, but wouldn't go into them, unless forced to do so, as he wanted to avoid a scandal in the house of labor, which certainly was decent of him.

There have been lots of cases like this in the public courts, but usually nothing comes of them, as it is preferred to settle them quietly in a private way. In some lawyer's office, lest the details give aid and comfort to the enemies of labor with an upper case L.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Union NEW YORK, Sept. 16. Three members of Local 449, of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steamfitters, have filed an action in the local court of common pleas against Leo A. Green, the secretary and treasurer of the organization, naming five other officers as co-defendants.

The plaintiffs are James A. Ahearn, formerly a vice president of the local; his brother, John L. Ahearn, formerly a member of the finance committee; and John J. Morrison, who is at present a member of the union's executive board.

The three petitioners, who, by their action, would seem to qualify as labor baiters, union busters, tools of Adolf Hitler and plotters of disunity, make very unorthodox allegations against the defendant brothers.

They charge that Mr. Green failed to give an accounting of $225,000 collected from workers in the routine operation of the sanctified shakedown commonly practiced by many AFL unions with the connivance of the United States government and known as the permit system. Under this system nonunion workers are shaken down by the unions in control of the jobs for permission to work on government projects. They are, in real effect, slaves, a subordinate class of beings with no voice in union affairs and ineligible, of course, for office.

There, said, and there are hundreds of thousands of them all over the United States, is clearly one of taxation without representation in which the bosses each had several sherry sops as his personal property to do the work. A boss with a personal stable of serfs each kicking back a portion of the work to him can live very well for years without stooping to vulgar toil himself.

Rate of Shakedown In the present case, the complaining brothers say the shakedown amounted to as much as $1 a day for serf steamfitters and 50 cents a day for serf helpers.

They allege that Brother Green bought $85,000 worth of bonds in his own name with money which belongs to the union, but my informant adds that counsel for the defense insists that $60,000 worth of these bonds were later turned into the treasury.

They charge that Brother Green bought $32,000 worth of real estate, including a home, with union money, and that he spent a large amount of union money in the politics of the international, or parent body, to elect himself to the office of international president, which he now holds.

In the influential position an accused brother might be able to prevail on his fellow international officers to pay no attention to the fact that the union is a body of men, not a body of international president, which he now holds.

In the influential position an accused brother might be able to prevail on his fellow international officers to pay no attention to the fact that the union is a body of men, not a body of international president, which he now holds.

Tobin It was Brother Dan Tobin, the international president of the teamsters, who frankly wrote a few years ago his opinion that any brother who appealed to the public courts for redress of any wrong done him by his international officers was lower than a scab.

Thus it will be seen that the Brothers Ahearn and Brother Morrison have placed themselves beyond the pale.

Specifically, these unethical brothers charge that Brother Green failed to deposit with the union treasury "a great part" of $150,000 in permit fees or slave tribute extorted from 1,200 workers at a big DuPont plant at Morgantown, W. Va., over a period of 10 months and failed to account for $75,000 similarly obtained from workers on a Carnegie-Illinois plant expansion job in 1937 and 1938.

Beyond this there are several minor allegations, insulting in their triviality, such as one that Brother Green posted $2,000 of the union's money as bond for a friend charged with manslaughter, a humane act if there ever was one, and the charge that he favored one of his relatives with jobs out of turn when other members were unemployed, a perfectly natural thing to do.

The attorney for the plaintiffs said he had a lot more charges, but wouldn't go into them, unless forced to do so, as he wanted to avoid a scandal in the house of labor, which certainly was decent of him.

There have been lots of cases like this in the public courts, but usually nothing comes of them, as it is preferred to settle them quietly in a private way. In some lawyer's office, lest the details give aid and comfort to the enemies of labor with an upper case L.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MC GILL.

A PINT OF BLOOD My blood pressure is low. Now and then, I suppose, it does rise just a little on special occasions.

I have always felt, for instance, that at the start of a Kentucky Derby my blood pressure was surging up rather high. I think the time I saw Max Baer knock out Max Schmeling my blood pressure was around the boiling point. It was that way at all the heavyweight fights. Except one. The night I watched Schmeling cut W. L. Stribling's face to pieces in the Cleveland stadium the old pressure was down to about 69.

There used to be some halfbacks who had a gift of being able to whip themselves through an almost nonexistent hole in a big line and go rushing through the secondary defense at top speed, who caused my blood pressure to steam. Sturphy Thomason and Gil Reese are the two I remember best.

Usually, however, my blood pressure stays around 109 over 80, which, I am told, a little bit unusual for a person who drinks 20 cups of coffee a day, overeats, stays up late and sleeps at odd intervals.

In my time I have given six blood transfusions. They are, of course, painless and bring about no inconvenience. I always enjoy the chocolate milk one gets afterwards. Because my own blood pressure is so low, however, a transfusion makes my pressure sink even lower than the night I saw Schmeling beat Stribling. My doctor discourages it.

Nevertheless, I am going back as soon as he will let me and donate a pint to the Red Cross.

And so, I imagine, are you if you heard that story of yesterday.

TORPEDOMAN SAM KURTZ The story that got me was about the use of blood plasma. It was the story of Torpedoman (second class) Samuel Kurtz. He lost both legs in the torpedo attack on the U. S. S. destroyer Kearny.

The Kearny was torpedoed in October, 1941. She was badly damaged and a number of the crew injured and killed.

There was no blood plasma aboard the destroyer at the time of the attack.

Destroyers have no room for hospitals. They carry no doctors. Any man who has served on a destroyer knows that his ship is a fighting machine. There is a chief pharmacist's mate with his iodine, his pills and his bandages.

A squadron of destroyers does include a doctor.

In this attack there was none present. They got Sam Kurtz aboard the rescuing ship, more dead than alive. They gave him first aid and sent out a call for a doctor and for blood plasma.

Blood plasma was flown to the scene and dropped in the sea. It was fished out. They gave the dying Kurtz three blood plasma transfusions aboard the rescue ship. (Others got it, too.) They gave him seven more after he reached a hospital.

They saved his life.

Yesterday Torpedoman Kurtz told the story of that rescue and of how blood plasma saved his life. He will walk again on artificial legs.

He lives and will walk, because American citizens gave their blood to the Red Cross. This blood was reduced to the vital plasma, which will keep longer than blood, and it saved Kurtz's life. It has saved many more lives. It will continue to save them.

The Red Cross will take it.

IN THE SOLOMONS They are using plasma in the Solomons right now.

You can just bet that in the jungles, where field hospitals have been set up, the needles are in the arms of wounded men, letting the life-sustaining plasma into the men, suffering from loss of blood.

You can just bet that, because you went to the Red Cross one day and let them painlessly and without any trouble at all take a pint of blood, some soldier's life is going to be saved.

Some men will come back from the war who would not have come back had you not given the Red Cross a pint of your blood.

Thousands will come back who would not have come back because of this campaign by the Red Cross.

The blood donor service is now asking for 2,500,000 pints of blood to be processed into plasma and serum albumin.

It doesn't hurt. It is very simple. You feel a slight prick of the needle, but it is very slight. And that is absolutely all there is to it. The blood comes out slowly. You sit around and rest for a while and have a glass of milk. At hospitals they usually give you chocolate milk. (The last time I gave a transfusion I gave a chocolate milk.)

Metal Collection: Alack and Alas, I'm Years Too Late.

I am determined to go out home this afternoon, don't that pair of overalls I bought back in the spring of '34—the year I also bought the wheelbarrow—and set about my duty to my country. That is, if I can find the overalls. They were worn only once and should be in good condition. The day after I started remodeling the garden my doctor gave me advice—in writing—to abstain from violent exercise in any form. He is the same doctor who advised me—in writing, so I could prove it—that three fingers of well-earned taken before bedtime was conducive to digestion and a panacea for insomnia. I know how to pick my doctors. But this M. D. is unavailable now. Research reveals he is languishing in the beneficent government's year-and-a-day cure for hothead.

But even if I can't find those overalls I'm going to set about a search for junk, to be ready for the collection on Saturday. I wish they'd started this thing about five years ago. I could have supplied material for two six-inch guns and a couple of bombers. We had installed a new furnace and the fragments of the departed veteran clogged the basement. There was also a defunct washing machine and seven galvanized tubs with holes in their bottoms. But the garage would have been a gold—or steel—mine at that time. Little did I realize what wealth was mine.

In the garage were two outmoded lawnmowers, 11 hoes and rakes without handles, the wheelbarrow left by the previous owner, two rusted bicycles, one of those coal-burning heaters designed to provide hot water if you fire it up, a discarded gas stove and a fireless cooker. I took no inventory, so I cannot recall the other items.

It is obvious that the family car—a succession of cars—could find little space in the garage. But I did make it a point, on very cold evenings or when a storm threatened, to get the hood and the important works inside it under shelter. From the windshield back the car had to take, what came, whether it liked it or not.

My Great Chance
Just when it seemed inevitable that I'd have to build another so-called garage to house these valuables and additions thereto, the Mistress of the Manor went away for a visit. Here was the opportunity of a lifetime. I interviewed a junk dealer of my acquaintance and arrested his attention.

"Go out to my house," I instructed him, "or send your menials. In the latter case tell them to haul off all the junk to be found in the basement and the garage. You needn't worry about getting the car mixed up with it. I'll drive it to town, if it will start."

"Will you be there to superintend?" he inquired.

"I certainly will not," I returned. "It might break my heart."

CACTUS & COCKLEBURR.

The folks had passed the word around in the Channel Cat Cross-in' settlement that Cas Cactus would be 80 years old last Tuesday, and the suggestion of a neighborhood gathering after supper at Chollie Cocklebur's house, with Miss Mary and Cass asked to come over without knowing what was planned, had been cordially received. No one was to bring a present.

Miss Sally talked with her father and mother about the plan, and had convinced them that it might be better to have Mr. Cactus and Miss Mary to come over for supper, and have them on hand when the folks arrived. Mrs. Cocklebur had a great supper—all the things that Cas specially liked, including potlikker and chicken pie and baked ham and plum pudding. They were sipping their last drop of coffee, and Cas had lighted his corn cob pipe, when voices were heard on the front porch. Chollie pushed his rolling chair back from the table, and Cas was rolling him through the big hall toward the porch, when the fact suddenly dawned on

EDITORIAL WAS USEFUL TO FBI SAYS HOOVER

Editor, Constitution: I have had occasion to read the editorial entitled "Another Termite Gone," which appeared in the September 4, 1942, issue of The Atlanta Constitution.

I was very much interested in your discussion of the case of Herbert Karl Friedrich Bahr, who was recently convicted. His attempted entrance into the United States as an espionage agent of the German government furnished added evidence of the Axis' plans to undermine America's preparedness program. I feel that editorials of this nature are very helpful at the present time, for they serve to give an insight into the great problem presently facing the Federal Bureau of Investigation and thus encourage the co-operation of the American people to render us all possible assistance in our work.

NELSON THANKS PAPER FOR AID IN SCRAP DRIVE

Editor, Constitution: As chairman of the War Production Board, I want to thank The Constitution for being represented at Washington on September 4 to discuss the major problem of salvage. The unanimous response of newspaper executives to our plea for co-operation and leadership in the national scrap drive was highly encouraging.

The fact that so many of you were present, in some cases coming long distances, is testimony to the traditional willingness of American newspaper executives to serve their country in whatever way possible. I have great hopes that your participation in this campaign will mean thousands of additional tons of badly needed scrap for our war factories.

Once again I want to express gratitude for the splendid spirit of co-operation shown by the publishers of America in undertaking to do this job.

MOBILE CLINIC.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 16.—The mobile tuberculosis clinic of the Georgia State Board of Health is in Brunswick for special work at the shipyard and will be here for a few days. The clinic is in charge of Dr. H. C. Schenck, director of the division of tuberculosis control of the state board, and Dr. L. M. Petrie, director of industrial hygiene, division of preventive diseases of the State Health Board.

And besides that, when my wife comes home I'm going to swear on a stack of Bibles two feet high—if there are that many in the neighborhood—that the premises were burglarized during my absence.

So I am afraid I shall not be able to dig up much junk for the war effort. I mean metal junk. There is plenty of wooden stuff, from washstands of the Garfield era to picture frames adorned with acorns and chestnut burs, glued on by some predecessor in the home. But little metal. Unless we contribute the dog chain and an automatic can opener which never did work—for me.

But I am forgetting. The garage, in the great days of which I write, also contained some two dozen discarded tires of varying sizes and enough blown-out inner tubes to start a second-store.

How I wish I hadn't yielded to that impulse and called on that junk man!

Old-Timer Passes

Newspaper advertisements announce auction sale of stock and fixtures of an old and noted dry goods store in Savannah. "Going out of business," it under-

The reason is not announced. But it's a pity and I'm sure many Savannah folk will agree with me. What old-time Atlantans does not remember with affection the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuRose Company? And Keely's? In a different locality and serving another type of clientele was Smith & Higgins, away over on Peters street.

We have more elaborate and aggressive stores these days, with greater stocks and perhaps lower prices. Atlanta stores are magnets which draw customers from a surprisingly large radius.

But any old-timer—especially among the women—will tell you how they miss the fine old places where they bought silks and velvets and laces and sought the wise council of Miss Abby or Miss Lucy about fabrics and fashions.

Gallup Poll Finds:

Public Favors Curb on Wages

By GEORGE GALLUP.

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 16.—The American public's first reaction to the farm price control legislation requested by the President is one of overwhelming approval.

Shortly after the President's Labor Day broadcast in which he warned congress to act before October 1 or he would act himself, the Institute began a survey of public sentiment on inflation control, collecting returns with the aid of the telephone.

Five cities spotted across the nation from the Atlantic to the Pacific were polled in this fashion, as well as farmers in representative rural areas throughout the middle west. The areas were picked in order to get a quick and at the same time representative picture of the public's first reaction to the President's broadcast.

The ballot question was wired to field reporters who interviewed a cross-section of the population in their areas and made their report by telegraph.

In the cities a majority of 3 to 1 or better was found in favor of stabilizing not only farm prices, as the President asked, but all wages and salaries as well.

In the farm areas, the poll found substantially the same reaction.

Legislation for over-all stabilizing of prices and wages has just been introduced in the senate by Senator Brown, of Michigan.

The issue put to the voters was: "To keep the cost of living from going higher do you favor keeping salaries and wages, and the prices of farm products, from going higher?"

The vote in the cities covered is as follows:

	Op-posed	Quali-fied	Un-decided
Baltimore	82%	4%	7%
Chicago	85	4	7
St. Louis	87	9	2
Omaha	78	3	13
Los Angeles	73	4	11

The vote among farmers in the midwest section was 71 per cent in favor, 7 per cent opposed, 16 per cent qualified, and 6 per cent undecided.

Persons who gave qualified answers indicated that they favored farm price control without wage control, or vice versa.

In the case of farmers, however, all persons giving qualified answers said they favored wage control, but not farm price control.

The Mysterious Case of Mr. Smith

1. Mr. Smith had the gang guessing. Regular guy, owned a small home, had a wife and swell kid. Never made a lot of money. Never spent much. But—

2. Was Mr. Smith putting one over? Come 9 A. M., and there was Smiddy at his desk, always looking jaunty as a screen star. Dressed better than The Boss. Could it be—

3. No, perish the thought. Mr. Smith was honest. Mr. Smith had no rich uncle. Mr. Smith was just a smart hombre, that's all. Jim King hit the first clue that day in the washroom. Sneaked a look at the label in Smith's coat. And then—

4. And then, Mr. Smith confessed—told all. Seems he was an "all-wool" fiend. It was blue-bloods or nothing, for him. "Give me goods that's the real McCoy", he confided, "and I'll show you a suit that stays smooth under any kind of beating. With doggone little pressing, too. This one hasn't been under the iron in three weeks. A short rest on the hanger, and back she is in swell shape". And then Smiddy let go with this, "Of course, my store has a name for selling only good stuff". Foxy, eh? Particularly now, when all of us want good all-wool clothes that'll stand up longer. But wait—like all mysteries, this one has an ending with a wallop. Smith whipped it over like a bombshell. "Stop guessing", he chuckled, "I own just two suits. But you see, both of 'em are Bond's!"

Marcus' Stage Show, opening at the Roxy theater tomorrow headlines the new crop of offerings at Atlanta theaters beginning today and tomorrow. "Cairo," a musical comedy set in the east is offered at Loew's Grand and "Talk of the Town" plays its third week at the Rialto beginning today. "Panama Hattie" moves to the Rhodes for its third week, also.

ROXY. Atlanta's first stage show of the fall season makes its bow at the Roxy theater tomorrow when the celebrated Marcus Show, made up of gorgeous girls, comedians, acrobats, dancers and singers, plays its first performance. On the screen the Roxy theater will offer "Henry and Dizzy" the new Aldrich picture. Jimmy Lydon and Charles Smith will play the parts of two troublesome brats. Headlined by the internationally famous chorus of beauties, the stage show will offer such principals as Leon Miller, Harold Boyd and His Jugglers, Latasha and Laurence, Janade, Bob White, Ruth Durrell, Thais and Arabian troupe of acrobats, and others.

LOEW'S GRAND. From Sibelius to swing, that will be the musical route traveled in M. G. M.'s "Cairo," which stars Jeanette MacDonald and Robert Young and which comes today to Loew's Grand theater. Ethel Waters, the Negro songstress, will share vocal honors with Miss MacDonald.

Combining the color of the east with Harlem rhythms and stirring operatic arias, "Cairo" offers something new in a rendition of "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" by Miss MacDonald. The title song, written by Arthur Schwartz and E. Y. Harburg, is the highlight of the show.

RIALTO. "Talk of the Town," starring Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Colman begins its third week at the Rialto theater today.

The delightful comedy concerns itself with the story of an escaped arsonist who seeks refuge in the legal strings of Cary's arson case things reach hysterical proportions.

RHODES. "Panama Hattie," the Red Skelton-Ann Southern farce which played before packed houses for two weeks at Loew's Grand theater, moves today to the Rhodes theater for a third week.

Set in the Canal Zone, this comedy, which presents Rags Ragland and Ben Blue in important supporting roles, provides many laughs with the antics of the trio of sailors who have a mania for tracking down spies. Miss Southern plays the part of a night club entertainer.

BRUNSWICK COURT. "BRUNSWICK COURT," Sept. 16.—Judge Gordon Knox, judge of the Brunswick circuit superior court, is presiding at the September session of the court in Brunswick this week. John C. Kaufman was named foreman.

Vacancies Listed For City Jobs

Turnover in municipal employments has applied the pressure to the city personnel department to supply city workers, Stafford W. Graydon, city personnel director, said yesterday.

Examinations for creation of eligible lists from which employees will be selected in the future were held for the following posts during the week:

Building custodian, pediatrician, meat inspector, dentist, nursing arts instructor and graduate nurse. In addition examinations for sanitarians and for oral hygienists will be held next week.

Most of the vacancies are caused by men and women entering the services, but some employees are resigning to accept better paying positions.

Garbage Collection
Schedule Unchanged
H. J. Cates, chief of the sanitary department, yesterday emphasized that the department will continue to collect garbage from residential sections twice a week as usual at least for the present. He said there has been an impression that citizens must place their garbage between sidewalks and curbs if it is to be collected, but added "we will get the garbage from usual places until further notice."

Battle Raging In Outskirts Of Stalingrad

ingrad defense zone far to the north, and had killed 500 Germans in defensive fighting south of Voronezh on the upper Don.

Vital Hub at Stake.

But the battle for Stalingrad, vital Russian communications hub for the southern Red army, overshadowed all these other sectors. German advantages in reinforcements were the telling factors in the steady Axis advance which began June 22 in the Kharkov sector, reached Voronezh on the upper Don and then wheeled southward to overrun the Donets Basin and a great part of the northern Caucasus.

The high command in Berlin said the Germans had gained "considerable additional ground" at Stalingrad, and other Nazi broadcasts described bitter street fighting and further penetrations into "the interior" of the city. The Germans disclosed, however, that the Russians had resumed heavy attacks at Voronezh on the upper Don, 300 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

Cyclonic Battle.

The armies locked in the cyclonic battle of the Volga were feeling the first real bite of frost on the 23rd day of the Stalingrad siege. In Moscow, where the temperature was comparable, overcoats and gloves were appearing on the streets.

The army newspaper Red Star stressed the gravity of the situation brought about by unceasing German mass Stuka raids on Stalingrad. It said most of the Nazi successes were achieved by prodigious use of the air arm.

Paced always by planes, German tanks were dragging light cannon into action. When these got through Russian positions Nazi artillerymen scrambled from guns or tanks, took up positions to support the tanks.

Navy's Kiska Communique

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Following is the text of Navy Department communique (No. 127):

North Pacific:

1. On September 4 two long range Army pursuit planes (Lockheed "Lightnings") accompanied by one Army heavy bomber (Consolidated "Liberator") made a strafing attack on enemy ships, aircraft and shore installations at Kiska harbor in the western Aleutian islands. A four-engine flying boat is believed to have been destroyed on the water and many casualties both aboard ships and ashore were reported.

2. On September 14 a large group of Army heavy bombers (Consolidated "Liberators") accompanied by Army pursuit planes (Bell "Aircobras") and "Lockheed "Lightnings") bombed and reinforcements where for a while they had none, the Russians in 24 hours had brought down 35 German planes at Stalingrad, either in aerial combat or by antiaircraft fire.

Red Star told the story of a German attack on a hospital in the Stalingrad region in which attack the Germans lost 3,000 dead after a battle lasting many hours.

The Army organ said that the Nazis in recent fighting west of the city had wedged into Russian positions in various places, "but in a majority of cases were forced to retreat."

It said German automatic gunners frequently seeped into the defenses. They almost always were wiped out, the newspaper added, but it acknowledged this infiltration had complicated the Russian battle plans.

Red Star said railways feeding Stalingrad still were operating on a 24-hour basis, although they were under constant attack, which necessitated innumerable halts.

There are three lines into Stalingrad—one from Moscow on the north, another directly from the west, crossing the Don at Rikheve, and the other from the southwest through the Kotelnikovsk. A belt line connects all three outside the city.

In the renewed fighting on the upper Don about Voronezh the Russians reported they had effected a new crossing to the west strafed the same objectives from low altitude. The enemy attempted to repel this attack with planes and weak antiaircraft resistance. The attack resulted in the following damage to the enemy:

(a) Two mine sweepers were sunk.

(b) Three large cargo ships were damaged by bombs.

(c) Three submarines and several small craft were damaged by bombs and machinegun fire.

(d) Storehouses and supply dumps in the camp area were set afire by repeated attacks.

(e) Four "Zero" fighters and one small plane were shot down.

(f) One large patrol plane was destroyed on the water.

(g) An estimated 500 troops were either killed or wounded.

3. No U. S. aircraft were lost as a result of enemy action.

bank, repulsing five Axis attacks, defeating two Hungarian regiments, two German battalions and destroying 20 tanks and 30 trucks. Three heights were reported retaken by the Russians.

Dispatches to Izvestia, the government newspaper, said the Germans had brought up another division south of Voronezh in August and had recently made fierce attacks, in one place using 100 tanks.

On the central front west of Moscow the Germans made several heavy counterattacks with reinforced troops, but failed to gain any important ground.

Georgia Farmers Offer Land to U. S.

Declaring prices paid for farm products to be "all out of proportion" to that paid people in other vocations," 37 members of the Social Circle (Ga.) unit of the Farm Bureau Federation yesterday offered to rent their farms to the United States government.

The offer has been submitted to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard in Washington. State Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder announced.

Those signing the offer said they would plant such crops as directed by the government with the understanding each farm owner would be paid a rental according to acreage and fertility of land.

They also would expect pay for the owner's services as foreman or laborers on the farm.

Status Improved For Auto Dealers

The financial status of legitimate automobile dealers throughout the country is "surprisingly improved over the dark days of January through March," Lyman W. Slack, general sales manager of the Packard Motor Car Company, told Georgia dealers in an address here this week.

Slack stressed the importance of keeping automobiles operating for general transportation facilities.

He said a minimum of twenty million passenger cars must be kept running to carry out the general plan of wartime transportation.

Hosts for the automobile company official were George Couch, vice president and general manager of the Atlanta Packard Company; W. C. Herring and W. N. Hall, regional managers. Slack was accompanied to Atlanta by A. B. Nielsen, assistant general sales manager.

U. S. Takes Big Toll of Enemy Ships and Men

munique said, indicating that while the enemy might make a new thrust at any time, the situation was at least temporarily under control. Marine patrols were described as continuing their drive against enemy units in the interior of the island.

Reketa Bay Raid.

This communique also said that two Army "Flying Fortresses" carried out the Reketa Bay raid on the northwest coast of Santa Isabel Island which lies northwest of the Guadalcanal airfield, and that "fires were observed as a result of this bombing."

Navy and Marine Corps "Devastator" dive-bombers and Navy Grumman "Avenger" torpedo planes were credited with attacking a cruiser and destroyer force south of Chosile Island, which also lies to the northwest of Guadalcanal and about 200 miles away, and scoring hits on the two cruisers.

The third communique covering the action at Kiska harbor in the Aleutians—the first issued here since August 22—came out almost simultaneously with a communique from Pacific fleet headquarters reporting the same action. The report from Honolulu said the big Aleutians raid was made September 15, while the Navy said it was September 14. Naval officials here insisted the latter date was correct.

Fighters Collide.

Otherwise, they agreed on all substantial facts. The Navy said there were no United States planes lost as a result of enemy action. Amplifying this point, the Honolulu announcement said that two Lockheed P-38 "Lightnings" fighter craft, were lost when they collided in the air over Kiska.

The force which carried out this raid was described as a "large group of Army heavy bombers, Consolidated "Liberators," escorted by P-38's and Bell "Aircobras"—both powerful, long-range fighters on their first such mission in the Aleutians.

This mighty air armada encountered but weak enemy resistance from fighter planes and antiaircraft fire and was able to inflict this damage:

Sinking of two mine sweepers, damaging of three large cargo ships, three submarines and "several small craft" which were hit by both bombs and machinegun fire; setting ablaze of storehouses and supply dumps ashore; destruction of four "Zero" fighters and one small plane in the air and one large patrol plane on the water and the killing or wounding of an estimated 500 troops.

Successful Attack.

Prior to this raid, which the Honolulu communique called a "most successful attack," Army planes had carried out on September 4 a relatively light raid on Kiska base.

That mission, the Navy communique said, was performed by two P-38's and a Consolidated "Liberator" bomber. They strafed enemy ships, aircraft and shore installations and probably destroyed a four-engine flying boat on the water.

Quick Justice Promised For Girls' Slayer

Town 'Emotionally Cold Sober' After Kidnap-Murder.

BEDFORD CENTER, N. Y., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Reflecting the grim, but "emotionally cold sober" attitude of this grief-stricken town, District Attorney Elbert Gallagher tonight promised quick justice for a youth accused of the kidnap-murder of two small sisters.

"This gruesome case will go to the Westchester county grand jury as quickly as we can prepare the necessary documents," Gallagher said. "It's a clear-cut case of the most cruel sort of crime."

Edward Haight, 17-year-old Stamford (Conn.) laborer who confessed binding, gagging and attacking Helen Lynch, 8, and Margaret, 7, after luring them into a stolen station wagon Monday night, was held without bail by justices of the peace in two separate arraignments, to await action of the grand jury.

"No-Good Punk."

He was taken to the Eastview county jail, a stone's throw from the Grasslands hospital where the mother of the slain children has been a tuberculosis patient for six years. If indicted and convicted Haight faces the death penalty or life imprisonment.

Chief of Police Frank Mallette, of the town of Bedford, where the children lived and were criminally attacked, said no fancy psychological terms were needed to describe Haight.

"He's just a plain damned no-good punk," Mallette said.

Mallette, acting on a police teletype report "hunch" at 8 a. m. Tuesday morning, alone was credited for organizing an eight-state hunt, which brought the co-operation of city, county and state police and drew suspicion to Haight in his Stamford home, 14 miles away.

Within 12 hours after this "country cop" started to draw the net around the criminal, Haight had been captured, and gave a full confession to Connecticut state police at Westport.

No Third Degree.

His confession was haltingly repeated to 25 police, district attorney attaches, local officials and townspeople in the Bedford Hills police station early this morning. "There was no third degree," Chief Mallette said. "We sat in the upstairs court room in plain sight of the crowds outside and drew the story from him."

"Haight lied several times at first. At one particularly gruesome admission about one of the girls, their father, Patrick Lynch, made a lunge at him, but con-

ATTENTION...Telephone Users!

Your Voluntary Help is Urgently Needed!

In wartime, war needs must come first. This necessitates fast telephone service for the military authorities and the people who are producing the weapons of war.

Time is short. Speed is urgent. As these essential telephone users turn to the telephone to save time, they depend on the same telephone system that serves you. Therefore the volume of war calls handled on long distance and local telephone lines grows greater with every day. This, coupled with increased usage by the public generally, has resulted in serious congestion of our facilities.

If times were normal, we would expand to care for the increased volume of calls. But more facilities cannot be built now because the materials needed for telephone construction are going into weapons of war.

So to help relieve the congestion, we are asking the public to limit its use of long distance and local service in order that war calls can have the right-of-way.

Here's How You Can Help

Long Distance Calls

- 1 Make only the most necessary long distance calls.
- 2 Place your calls before 9 a.m.; between noon and 2 p.m.; 5 and 7 p.m.; or after 9 p.m.
- 3 Stay near your telephone after you have placed your call.
- 4 Plan what you want to say to make your conversation as brief as possible.
- 5 Whenever possible, call by number.

Local Calls

- 1 Use your telephone sparingly—avoid unnecessary calls.
- 2 Be sure to replace your receiver on hook.
- 3 Look up numbers you are not sure of and help avoid the calling of wrong numbers.
- 4 Make your conversations brief.
- 5 Caution your servants against needless use of the telephone.

For more information on this subject listen to the "Telephone Hour" radio program over N.B.C. network every Monday at 9 p.m. E.W.T. (8 p.m. C.W.T.)

Ellis Arnall To Speak On March of Time

Will Discuss Plans for Restoring Democracy to State Tonight.

Ellis Arnall, victor in last week's primary for governor, tonight will tell his plans for restoring democracy to Georgia on the national radio program of the March of Time. He will speak at 10:30 p. m. The program is carried by WSB in Atlanta.

Governor-elect Arnall was invited by the March of Time to appear as the featured guest on the program tonight. This is in keeping with the policy of the March of Time to invite men and women who are in the news spotlight each week to appear.

Governor-elect and Mrs. Arnall left Atlanta on the Crescent Limited yesterday afternoon to appear on the radio program at Washington. While in Washington, Governor-elect Arnall also will confer with President Roosevelt on plans to co-operate with the nation's war program.

The March of Time radio program is directed by Frank Norris, who spent much of his boyhood in Atlanta. He is son of President Ernest E. Norris of the Southern Railway system.

Labor Control Called Vital To U.S. War Output

Broad Powers by Government 'Inevitable,' McNutt Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP) A national service act, giving the government broad controls over the nation's labor resources, was described today by Paul McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, as "inevitable" and as essential for maximum war production.

"I think the people are ready for it," he told the special house committee on defense migration, which now is studying methods for full utilization of the country's manpower.

McNutt disclosed that a commission subcommittee is studying the potential scope of a national service act, but declared that no decision had been reached as to when the recommendation for the legislation would be sent to President Roosevelt.

Nor, he said, had a final decision been reached on the measure's form. Presumably, however, it would prevent workers in essential industries from leaving one job for another without government sanction, and might permit the administering agency to transfer workers to areas where labor shortages develop.

Bluntly, McNutt acknowledged that the manpower commission's present attempts to meet industry's increasing demands for labor through a system of "persuasion and agreements" had proved unsuccessful in many areas.

He said that "needless" migration of labor still continued, that "labor piracy" was proceeding unchecked and that discrimination against employing women and minority groups was hampering war production in several sections.

Delegates Named To Arnall 'Session'

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 16.—Ware county delegates to the Georgia Democratic convention to be held in Macon October 7, have been selected, pursuant to the request of the nominee, Ellis Arnall. Two Japanese Admirals Will Pay Visit to Turkey

ANKARA, Sept. 15.—(Delayed) (AP)—A Turkish newspaper said today Vice Admiral Naokuni Nomura and Rear Admiral Katsuo Abe, chiefs of the Japanese coordinating committees in Berlin and Rome, would arrive in Turkey Thursday "for the purpose of making certain contacts."

United Nations naval quarters here said they could offer no immediate explanation.

(The Japanese admirals were received with military honors by the Pierre Laval government in Vichy last May, just before the British moved to occupy Diego Suarez in Madagascar, and conferred with several department heads, including Admiral Francois Darlan, chief of the armed forces.)

New Students Will Be Welcomed at University

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 16.—The program of activities for freshman week at the University of Georgia has been arranged by Robert M. Strozier, assistant dean of students. The activities for September 21-26 are planned to assist the new student in acclimating himself under different surroundings and to provide the university with necessary information about the students.

A general assembly will be held Monday night, September 21, in the chapel on main campus with William Tate, dean of students, presiding. An address of welcome will be given by Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, president of the university, and Dr. L. L. Hendren, dean of faculties, and members of the staff of the office of the dean of students will be introduced. A second assembly will be held Wednesday night with Dean Strozier presiding. At this time many of the student leaders will be presented and will make short talks on the different phases of student life and activity. On this program recognition will be given to leaders in scholarship, student government, religious activities, social activities, athletics, publications, debating and music.

During the week, each student will be given placement tests in mathematics, science, English, literature to help the university in the arrangement of classes in these subjects. Physical examinations will be held at time designated to provide an index of the student's health and to recommend any remedial measures that may be needed. Under the direction of Mrs. Mary Bondurant, director of placement and student aid, selected members of the faculty will be available for counseling conferences with students. Freshmen are urged to confer with those counselors regarding the problem of becoming accustomed to university life.

A college night reception Friday night at Memorial hall fills in the social aspect. Fraternity rushing has been planned by the Interfraternity Council to co-ordinate with the other activities of freshman week. Formal registration of freshmen will be held Saturday morning, September 26 from 8:30 until 12:30.

CHURCH BELL.
ROCHELLE, Ga., Sept. 16.—The congregation of the Pitts Methodist church have gone back to the old-fashioned way of summoning their members to worship, and have installed a church bell. The church building is a modern brick structure.

MRS. JAMES JOSEPH WALSH, OF CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Miss Elaine Fuller Weds Lieut. J. J. Walsh at Church

The marriage of Miss Hellen Elaine Fuller, daughter of Mrs. Jack B. Massa and Robert Newell Fuller, of California, became the bride of Lieutenant James Joseph Walsh, of Charlotte, N. C., formerly of Atlanta, on Monday morning at the Cathedral of Christ the King.

Rev. Father A. Charles McBenett officiated at 11:30 o'clock and a musical program was presented by Clarence Earhardt. White gladioli and asters formed the altar decorations.

Lieutenant Frank F. Cook, Lieutenant Frederick T. Temple, Lieutenant James C. Stewart and Lieutenant Daniel L. Rhoad were the ushers.

The bride was given in marriage by her step-father, Jack B. Massa, and the groom had as his best man Lieutenant W. C. French. The bride, who is a lovely blonde, chose a two-piece dress of green trimmed in gold braid, and her accessories were brown. Her flowers were orchids.

Mrs. Walter Watson Green was the bride's only attendant and was gown in purple wool, worn with black accessories. Her flowers were pink rosebuds and tuberose. Mrs. Massa, mother of the bride, was gown in a tan wool suit worn with brown accessories. Her flowers were roses and tuberose. The bridal couple left for a wedding trip, and will reside in Charlotte, N. C., where the groom is stationed with the Quartermaster Depot of the U. S. Army.

Miss Lenora Jones And Lieut. Griffin Announce Plans

Widespread interest centers in the announcement made today of the plans for the marriage of Miss Lenora Jones and Lieutenant Thomas Puckett Griffin, of Camp Shelby, Miss., and Decatur, whose engagement was announced recently. The ceremony will be solemnized on Sunday afternoon, October 4, at 5:30 o'clock at the P. L. Memorial church in Decatur.

The bride-to-be will be given in marriage by her father, S. J. Jones, and she has chosen her sister, Miss Kathleen Jones, as her maid of honor.

The bevy of bridesmaids will include Misses Carol Jones, another sister of the bride-elect; Betty Dillard, Josephine Elarbee, Evelyn Traber, Nixie Norris and Rosemary Griffin, sister of the groom-elect.

Corporal William Griffin, United States Army, will be his brother's best man. Acting as ushers will be J. W. Waters, O. B. McMichael, Freeman McMichael, Lewis Harris, Leon Respass and Bill Morgan.

Prior to the nuptials the popular bride-elect will be honored at numerous social affairs, the dates to be announced later.

Coleman-Jackson

Of interest to their friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Angeline Inestelle Coleman, only child of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Coleman, of Fairburn, to Watson Benjamin Jackson, of East Point and Hapeville.

The marriage took place last Thursday at St. John's Methodist parsonage in Atlanta. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. A. Hall.

The attractive bride wore a stylish two-piece victory blue suit, worn with brown accessories and bronze orchids.

Mrs. Jackson graduated from Campden High school in 1936 and from West Georgia College in 1938. She taught school two years and afterward she accepted a position in the state purchasing department where she is still employed.

Mr. Jackson is a prominent young businessman of Hapeville. He is the son of Mrs. H. N. Jackson and the late H. N. Jackson, of East Point, and a nephew of Judge Jackson, of Forsyth.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Jackson left on a trip to St. Simons and points in Florida. Upon their return they will reside on Cleveland avenue in East Point.

Fulton Medical Auxiliary Adopts Plan of War Service

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Fulton County Medical Society adopted a plan of War Emergency Service at the recent meeting of the advisory committee of the Medical Society. Those who are participating in this service will be known as members of the Doctor's Aide Corps.

The training classes for the Corps will begin at 10 o'clock on Tuesday, September 22, at the Academy of Medicine, when the first of a series of four lectures will be held. The other three lectures will be held from 10 to 12 o'clock on Friday, September 25; Tuesday, September 29, and Friday, October 2.

The other requirement necessary for the corps, in addition to attendance at the lectures, will be service in the specialized division of the Emergency War Service. Candidates may elect one of the following specialized services: Radio and speakers' bureau; health films; service groups that cooperate with volunteer agencies in first aid, nutrition, home nursing, nurse's aides; blood type registry in a laboratory established at the Academy of Medicine which will need the services of receptionists, laboratory technicians, typists and file clerks.

Only members of the auxiliary to the Fulton County Medical Society may be candidates for and wear the insignia of the Doctors Aide Corps. Mrs. E. D. G. R. H. Greene is president of the auxiliary.

Rich's

Woman Ruins Future By Clinging to Thoughts Of What Might Have Been

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

When I was 14 I fell in love. Everyone thought it was puppy love but now that I am 40 they realize it was the real thing. When I was 17 his father got in trouble and the entire family felt the disgrace and were dropped by everyone. I wrote to this boy and tried to encourage him and told him how much I loved him. He never answered. Years passed, his father died and we were married. His mother turned against me and I will never know why and so one day my husband sent me home, telling me we had made a terrible mistake by marrying. My mother suggested I call him and talk things over. I called him and he told me not to come back if I had to tell her everything. He insisted I get a divorce, which I did in two years. I keep thinking he would come and get me but he never did and would ignore me when I would speak to him.

Three years later I married. I was in love with my husband but he is an habitual drunkard. We have two children, have been married for 17 years. He is a good provider but I have been through hell with him. I would have tried to love him had he treated me right for I stayed with him because I did not intend to be a failure again. About four years ago I met my former husband. The earth came up and hit me in the face, and we just stood and stared. He told me he had been through hell and neither one of us cared to appear as happy as we really were over seeing one another again.

He said he had never married, he just could not and that he still loved me with all his heart and that he was entirely to blame for what had happened. He said he had told everyone he had been waiting for me. For months I tried to forget him after that meeting. Finally I called him and he was so happy I almost cried. After this we began calling every day. We often met in the park and talked and tried to straighten things out of years past. His mother met me with open arms and told me how she had grieved and that she was to blame for everything. This has gone on for four years. We both thought it best for me not to leave my husband. My first husband thought that I had better stay with my second husband because of the children.

Then one day my second husband called me and told me he had married. I cried for days. I called and congratulated him and tried to appear as though I did not care. He said he felt it was the only thing to do for he waited and waited, thinking I would bring us back together, but nothing ever did. He said he still wanted to hear from me so we kept up our phone calls and once or twice met in the park and talked. I have tried to forget but it is impossible. He told me once there was but one love.

I know I should forget him and sometimes go for weeks without calling him. He is going to leave soon for the Army. Should I write to him? I never have a minute's peace from thoughts of him. He told me the other day he thought of me all the time. Once he said he would write me and send it general delivery. I have wondered if it would not be as good a time as any to forget him when he leaves. I would appreciate your advice to an old fool who cannot let the past die.

ANXIOUS.

Well, Anxious, I think that after all these years you should be reconciled to the fact that your ex-husband is burning his bridges behind him and is forgetting the past as much and as fast as possible. No man is worth you wasting your life over moaning and weeping over all these years, and especially a man who turned you out once, paid no attention to you for years, and then did not want you enough to even try to get you to leave your husband, and then as a final slap in the face, he married another woman! How many more things do you want him to do before you can realize that the past is dead and he is just an old beau and some one whom you thought was real and sincere and who turned out differently; and someone who, in these late years gives you crumbs of attention without intentions; and who lets you do all the advancing even to the telephoning.

I think that you are acting very foolish in hanging on to him, and you have been foolish all these years by doing that. Where is your pride and self-respect? He proved that he did not want you by insisting that you stay with your husband—bad as he is—for the children's sake. If he had loved you and wanted you, he would have made you get a divorce and marry him so that he could take care of you. A man wants to take care of the woman he loves. You are looking into the future with what you think is the glamor of the past, and it is not and will not get you anywhere.

I think it is high time that you forget this man right now. He certainly has shown you he is not further interested. When he turned against you years ago and told you to leave and insisted that you get a divorce you should have seen the handwriting on the wall and realized it was time to sever all relations with him. Let him go on to war, but remember he is leaving a wife behind him, but you are not the wife. Let sleeping dogs lie, is an old saying and it is good to remember now.

For the Business Girl

An Atlanta store has just opened a shop with services of a full-time consultant for the busy business woman and girl. Fashion is co-ordinated on a budget basis in this shop and the clothes, as you'd guess, are selected to see one through office hours and right on to dinner, without a change, if necessary. Among the clothes being shown are these pictured: A suit of aqua and brown herringbone tweed, with a slim skirt, has one pleat front and back and a jacket that slenderizes the midsection. A gold clip is worn on one breast-pocket. The accessories are wild honey, a warm shade of brown. The suit is $22.95. Miss Gloria Gormley modeling.

This very feminine hat with new, high, crushed crown is made of brown felt. On one side rests a bird with outstretched wings. The bird is beige, and a fleck of bright color is introduced in the bird's beak, which is scarlet. This hat is worn with a one-piece tailored dress of soft glen plaid wool, in shades of beige and brown. The dress is $12.95; the hat, $7.50. Miss Marguerite Wooten is the model.

Maisie Series Will Go On Despite the Death Of Producer, Jack Ruben

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—(INS)—The show must go on! Although J. Walter Ruben was the guiding spirit of the "Maisie" series, his death will not keep them from the screen. Jack wouldn't have wished it any different for he knew just how much the fans liked Ann Sothern in the "Maisie" character and these pictures were his pet production. George Haight produces the next one, "Swing It, Maisie," by Robert Hall.

I was highly amused at the story related to me when I visited M-G-M a few days ago. Maisie gets a job on the swing shift of an airplane factory and she has to park all her trick clothes and jewelry. But love wins out in the end—Maisie meets up with a test pilot and falls in love with him.

Here's news: Virginia Field and Paul Douglas have made a date with the stork and that's the real reason that Virginia has sent her regrets to Columbia for "Power of the Press." She wants to remain in the east with her husband until he goes into the service and to be near him as long as possible. Moreover, she will not do any picture work until the arrival of the Douglas heir. I hear that Gloria Dickson, who has been dieting and is much thinner, will have the femme lead in "Power of the Press," a newspaper yarn with Guy Kibbee, Lee Tracy and Victor Jory.

I'll say for Arnold Pressburger that he accepts no substitutes for real stars when he casts a picture. He gets the hottest actor in town—Brian Donlevy—to play Reinhard Heydrich's assassin in "Never Surrender." Since seeing "Wake Island," I don't wonder all the studios are bidding for Brian. Two years ago he was plugging along as a movie heavy. Then came "The Great McGinty"—and boom! he jumped into the $3,000-a-week class and has stayed there ever since.

Twenty-five thousand dollars is a lot of money to plank down for a couple of ghosts—but Buddy de Sylva thinks a new yarn about two people, literally out of this world, is worth just that. Also, he is influenced by the fact Dorothy MacArdle's story, "The Uninvited Guest," has jumped into fourth spot on the list of best sellers. Most movie ghost stories heretofore have been comic thrillers but this one is serious and dramatic, which is something new in movie ghosts. Charlie Brackett is getting the script whipped into shape.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Howard Christie, assistant director at Universal, and Alice Nielson, bit player, were wed at Las Vegas Sunday. Frances Robinson, one of our prettiest girls, has been Jimmie Walker's dinner partner on several occasions; Lynn Bari dropped 10 pounds in the two weeks she was out on the "Stars Over America" tour; Jeffrey Lynn stepped out with a stunning looking redhead—not Margaret Hayest; Jackie Coogan's five-month-old baby was a visitor on the Parlo lot where his mama, Flower Parry, is doing a part; Dennis and Kevin Donnelly, two cute babies in "Mark Twain," are the grandchild-children of that old movie hero of the silent days—and a good actor in the talks. That's all to-day. See you tomorrow! But Esther Bearman, Los Angeles, says: "We will be happy all the way, if we buy bonds with 10 per cent of our pay."

How To Bring Relief From Pain Of "Morton's Toe"

By Dr. William Brady.

A spot of exquisite tenderness under the second, third or fourth metatarsal bone just beside the ball of the foot, with sudden attacks of severe pain running into the third or fourth toe, pain so severe that the victim is compelled to stop and remove the shoe to get some relief, is known as Morton's toe, or metatarsalgia.

Some orthopedists have attempted to distinguish metatarsalgia from Morton's toe, maintaining that the former is a painful condition associated with weakness and flattening of the transverse arch, the arch crosswise of the forefoot, and the latter is a neuritis caused by pressure by the head of the fourth metatarsal. But this is cutting it a bit too fine in the average case, at least too fine for plodding door-to-door practitioners of the caliber of Ol' Doc Brady.

In a foot with a normal transverse arch there is a hollow, or crease lengthwise in the sole from the base of the second toe about halfway down the length of the sole. When the transverse arch is weakened or flattened or broken this hollow or crease is replaced by a rounded bulge and usually a large callus, especially a callus on the outside under the heads of the metatarsal bones of the small toes.

Cause of Morton's toe, metatarsalgia, painful callus on ball of foot is tight, narrow outflaring shoes. Outflaring here means shoes with soles turned outward from the straight line, after the old fashion of turning the toes out. One make of shoe that has been widely sold for many years has always adhered to the normal or natural form of the foot in this respect, although the shoes may seem "ugly" to the uninformed customer at first glance—albeit that have always given great comfort to people fortunate enough to wear them, and wearing them has always been a blessing to the feet. In many cases an oval pad three

A Poor Figure Goes With Poor Health

By Ida Jean Kain.

This is another of a series of articles by Ida Jean Kain in which is offered a physical fitness program for women during wartime. Today: Figure Improvement.

The thin girls are usually flat-chested. The healthy slim girls are the ones with curves. And there, my bony, bonnie lassie, is your cue for improving this portion of the figure—just go after health.

The breasts are glands and glandular functioning is tied up with vitality. There is no magic lotion that will help one whit. The only way you can have a Lana Turner figure through the chest and shoulders is to bring your weight to normal and your health to par. It isn't just more padding here and there that you need. It's a healthier system. Build yourself up with a nourishing diet—not just one that contains more calories, but a diet that gives you more calories in the protective foods. Get plenty of milk, cream, butter and eggs.

You also need the green leafy and yellow vegetables, fresh green salads, fresh and cooked fruits, and whole grain cereals for their minerals and vitamins. Take generous helpings of whole grain or enriched bread, and butter at every meal. You should have a serving of meaty fish or fowl every day. If you like liver or the other meat organs, sweetbreads, kidney, heart or brains—have them once or twice a week. They are among the richest food sources of the B vitamins.

Since poor muscle tone and poor circulation go with lowered vitality, you should take more exercise in the fresh air. Build up your vitality by using your muscles. Well-toned muscles make for an efficient digestive system, improved circulation, a normal appetite—in short, health.

Any outdoor exercise is all to the good. Swimming and archery are excellent. But to give the supporting pectoral muscles an extra tonic, take specific calisthenics. Swing and circle the arms backward from the shoulders or work out on a stretching bar. You can easily put one up in a doorway.

If you are consistent about your health program, you will see a gradual but steady improvement in your figure. Good muscle tone will fill in the hollow between chest and shoulders. Also good tone in the supporting muscles will improve the contour. And your increased vitality will make you feel like standing up, which is quite a help.

You can depend on it. Such a well-rounded health program will give you a lovely figure. But if your bust is normally small you may want to abet nature by wearing a bit of padding in the bra. Grandma used to and none of the stars do. If one side is noticeably smaller, just use the padding on the slight side. The uplift, brassieres are marvelous. They help us to give the illusion of a good figure. If we had had them years ago instead of the binding kind, there wouldn't be so many flat-chested women today.

Tomorrow we will start our campaign for lovelier legs.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—Public matters or dealings with the public where finances are involved, or where it is necessary to use diplomacy, are especially favored until 3:31 p. m. After 3:31 p. m. a feeling of nervousness may incline you to mistakes. An excellent period to use caution in whatever you sign.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Previous to 8:17 a. m. the influences may incline you to jump into things that you know nothing of, therefore be discreet in all that you do. From 8:16 a. m. throughout the remainder of the day and evening, let nothing hold you down. Encourage all matters that look promising.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—After 11 a. m. active work with all sorts, ideas that require energy and enthusiasm, mechanical and industrial affairs, should be put into practice, for you can go forward with full speed to your credit.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—The predominant influences through 3 p. m. tend to retard progress and completion of things may be delayed beyond the time expected.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—Your judgment especially in regard to financial matters, close relatives and written matters, may lack the clearness and decisiveness before 11:46 a. m. Friction with close kin or those acting as agents may be turbulent and hard to iron out.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—Use special caution in travel previous to 7:10 a. m. However, between 7:10 a. m. and 8:42 p. m. property interests, domestic matters and home affairs should prove a source of gain and pleasure.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—Before 8:35 p. m. you can meet or feel a sympathy which will aid you to obtain a better response to your efforts. After 8:35 p. m. special care in travel, negotiations, trading and dealing with close relatives.

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—Throughout the day and until 8 p. m. does not favor seeking favors for long credits. Previous to 10:55 a. m. suggests using special care in travel.

November 22-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—More success will be attained today through sticking to routine. Be deliberate in what you do and do not undertake affairs impulsively. The best aspects of the day operate to the period previous to noon.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—While new beginnings may have a tendency to run into obstacles if started before 11:28 a. m. old, practical ideas may be pushed forward to advantage.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)—After 8:07 a. m. is an excellent time for making definite decisions and finishing up matters that have already been started. The evening hours past 6:30 p. m. favor social activities and romantic affairs.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—Before 10:23 a. m. keep away from speculative ideas and scrutinize carefully any new project that may be brought to you for decision at this time.

MY DAY: Shifting Workers Draws Little Protest

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY, Tuesday.—It seems curious to me that we accept with much less excitement so drastic an action as the right of the War Manpower Commission to shift workers without their consent to new places of abode, or into other fields of work; and yet seem to find it so difficult to accept any suggestions for new types of taxation.

I was much interested in Senator George's remark that the Treasury's "spending tax" was a leveling tax. I supposed that was the type of tax we were looking for at present. It must be, however, that the pull of material interest has always been one of our strongest motivating forces and is still stronger in the minds of most of us than the right to work where and whenever we choose.

I think that in the present situation we have to accept as workers in civilian life, or even as private individuals, the decrees of our government in exactly the same way that soldiers have to accept them. I would not oppose any of these decrees. The only thing which surprises me is, that where our pockets are concerned, we fight so much harder and apparently so much more successfully against certain drastic changes.

I suppose it is in our tradition and it will take us longer to make the changes. In the end we will accept them, as we do everything else, when we realize that to do so will shorten the war and give our boys a better chance to come through alive.

There is no retreat for the defenders of Stalingrad. As we read this morning that their lines stiffen, I think everyone in this country must want to express his admiration for their extraordinary ability to stand and to take it.

The RAF and our own men seem to be effectively containing their raids on Germany, but it does not look as though raids alone were the final answer to the battle of Europe. All we can do is to pray that our production will really reach the point where decisive action can be taken.

As I came down from Westbrook, Conn., yesterday, a man sat down beside me. He had been to Bridgeport trying to get into a defense workers' school. He was married and had a child, and his own business had been ruined by the war, but so far he had not been able to get anywhere. Apparently, there is still a pool of workers in New York City who have not found jobs.

Jacqueline Cochran has earned her appointment to direct women's air work and women everywhere will be proud of her achievement.

MISS ANNE PHINIZY BLACK.

Miss Anne Phinizy Black Will Become Bride Of Ensign David Randolph Berry, of Rome

Mr. and Mrs. David Calmes Black announce today the engagement of their only daughter, Miss Anne Phinizy Black, to Ensign David Randolph Berry, of Rome, United States Naval Reserves, who is stationed in Memphis, Tenn., the date of the marriage to be announced later.

Blonde and lovely Miss Black attended North Avenue Presbyterian school, where she belonged to the Phi Pi sorority, and was graduated from Ashley hall in Charleston, S. C. The bride-elect afterward was graduated from Marjorie Webster Junior College in Washington, D. C., and she attended Agnes Scott College in Decatur. The bride-elect's mother is the former Miss Marion Coles Phinizy, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Phinizy, of Augusta, Ga. Her paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. David Calmes Black, of New Orleans. David Calmes Black Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., is her only brother.

The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mrs. Thomas Berry, of Rome, Ga. His mother is the former Miss Isabelle Chaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen Chaney, of Detroit, Mich. His paternal grandparents are the late Captain and Mrs. Thomas Berry. His sister is Mrs. Paul Johnston, of Birmingham, Ala., and his brothers are Lieutenant (j. g.) Thomas Berry, United States Navy, and Henry C. Berry, of the Army Air Corps. He is a nephew of the late Miss Martha Berry, noted educator.

Ensign Berry is a graduate of Darlington school in Rome, and was graduated from the Georgia School of Technology, where he was a member of several honorary societies, and was president of the Chi Phi fraternity. He later attended Harvard Law school, until he was commissioned in the Navy.

Laura Palmer To Be Married To Ensign Benedict Today

... AN UNEXPECTED leave from duties on the west coast provided time for Ensign Theodore William Benedict, U. S. N., to fly to Washington to marry beautiful Laura Palmer at a ceremony scheduled for this evening. The engagement of this popular couple was announced in the early summer and because of Bill's duty with the Pacific fleet no definite plans could be made, until his leave was granted.

The wedding is set for 8:30 o'clock at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Palmer, whose wartime residence is at 1815 24th street, N. W., in Washington. Chaplain R. D. Workman, U. S. N., of Washington, will officiate, and relatives and friends of the young couple will attend.

Due to the absence of "Chuck" Palmer, Laura's father, who is in London on a mission for the U. S. government, Dick Sawtell, her uncle, will give her in marriage. Dick and Alice (Greene) Sawtell left yesterday for Washington and plan to remain there over the weekend.

Bill's father, Dr. Theodore Winfield Benedict, of New Canaan, Conn., will serve as his best man, and Margaret Palmer (Mrs. Earl C. Jr.) Moses, Laura's older sister, will be the matron of honor. Her younger sister, Jeanette, will be the maid of honor.

A reception will follow the ceremony at the Palmer home and later the couple will leave for a wedding trip.

... ONLY A FEW more days remain in which to enjoy the special pleasures afforded by summer, for next Monday is the official first day of fall. With this in mind, Dorothy Giddings and her brother, Glenville, decided that these last days should be packed to the hilt with outdoor activities—hence the reason for the home party at which they are entertaining at the family summer home at Lakemont.

Their guests, who left yesterday by bus and who will return on Saturday by similar transportation, include Isabelle Woodford, Jane Carmichael, Jean Creekmore, of Athens; John Wilson, Charles West, John Miller, R. A. Sewell and Bud Dutton.

Dorothy and Glenville have spent the summer at Lakemont, as have their mother, Mrs. Glenville Giddings, and their grandmother, Mrs. Preston Arkwright, who are chaperoning their house party. However, they plan to close the house for the season on Saturday, so the family will be reunited once again at their Druid Hills residence, Pineblum.

John Wilson, one of the house party guests, has recently returned from Harvard School of Business Administration, where he trained as a Q. M. C. cadet for Uncle Sam's Navy. To celebrate return he will be host at a party at the Driving Club dinner-dance Saturday evening, his guests to include Dorothy and Glenville Giddings, Jane Hailey, Emily Anderson, Virginia Boynton, Langdon Quinn, Hughes Sutorius, and Martin Worthing, of Columbus.

... THE TWO-YEAR engagement of Anne Black and Randy Berry is revealed today in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. David C. Black, parents of the beautiful young bride-elect. The couple's marriage will be governed by wartime conditions, but Anne and Randy will plight their troth some time in October.

The romance of the betrothed couple had its beginning when Randy was a student at Georgia Tech. Ever since that momentous meeting, their romance has flourished over a two-year period, for theirs is not a wartime engagement.

Randy is an ensign in the United States Naval Reserves and is stationed in Memphis, Tenn. It is there that he and Anne are enjoying the thrills that go with knowing that their engagement is being announced through Atlanta and Rome newspapers.

Mrs. Thomas Berry, of Rome, is chaperoning her future daughter-in-law upon this very important visit to Memphis. Anne and Randy will search for an apartment into which to move after their marriage. They expect to reside in Memphis until Randy is called elsewhere for duty with the United States Naval Reserves.

... UNCLE SAM continues to play chess with Atlantans, moving them hither, thither and yon, causing a great many pangs of regret among their families and friends. Consoling, however, is the fact that their absences are temporary only. Among the latest to take her "lures and penates" to other parts is Charlotte Woodford (Mrs. Bill) Ballenger.

Accompanied by her baby daughter, Isabelle, Charlotte departed Tuesday evening for Hopkinsville, Ky., to join her lieutenant husband, who is stationed near by. Charlotte has taken an attractive house in Hopkinsville, where she plans to remain until Bill receives further orders.

MISS ANNE DUPRE.

Miss DuPre, who is one of the most popular and attractive members of Atlanta's schoolgirl set, was recently named sponsor of the Theta Chapter of the K. D. K. fraternity. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter DuPre and attends Washington Seminary, where she is a member of the Phi Pi sorority and president of the Panhellenic Council.

Miss Jeanne Osborne Weds Lieut. Gibbs on Saturday

Of sincere and cordial interest is the announcement made today by Dr. and Mrs. Virgil Waite Osborne of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Jeanne Osborne, to Lieutenant (j. g.) Robert Irwin Gibbs Jr., U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irwin Gibbs, of Atlanta.

The couple will be married Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride-elect's parents on Forrest road.

Miss Osborne attended Girls' High school and Agnes Scott College, having graduated with honors from the latter school last June. She served as managing editor of the Agnes Scott News, was a member of the Mortar Board, and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary fraternity. Since her graduation, she has been a member of the editorial staff of The Atlanta Constitution.

An attractive brunet, Miss Osborne has been a popular member of the younger set and during her brief association with The Constitution has been a successful newspaper writer.

Lieutenant Gibbs is a graduate of Boys' High school and the Georgia School of Technology, where he was a member of the Phi Eta Sigma and the Alpha Chi Sigma fraternities. He was commander of the best drilled Naval R. O. T. C. company while at Tech. Until he entered service, he was a chemical engineer with the E. I. duPont de Nemours Company in Memphis, Tenn. For the past year he has been on foreign duty with the Navy.

Miss Osborne and Lieutenant Gibbs are being honored at a series of parties. Today Mrs. J. M. King and her daughter, Miss Catherine King, will entertain at a bridge party and miscellaneous shower at their home on Clifton road, the affair to follow the luncheon to be given by Mrs. Lon Credelle at the Paradise Room of the Henry Grady hotel.

Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. Willis DuBose entertain at a buffet supper at their home in Decatur for their sister and her fiancé, the affair to precede the wedding rehearsal.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Warren McLain were hosts at a dinner party at their home in Decatur for the couple, and yesterday at the luncheon hour Miss Mary Scott entertained at the Owl Room of the Ansley hotel for Miss Osborne.

New Air Raid Alarm Completed at City Hall

A new air raid alarm and safety zones were completed yesterday at the Atlanta city hall under the direction of L. Glenn Dewberry, superintendent of the building. The siren is installed in the elevator shaft and can be heard in every part of the 14-story structure. Wardens have been named for each floor and the safety zones are marked on the ground floor. If raids come, Mayor Hartsfield and others on the second floor will be herded to the basement by Warden Ernest Brewer, the mayor's executive secretary, and Warden Earl Hudson, employee of the water department.

Series of Parties Fete Miss Kellam.

Miss Rebecca Kellam, whose marriage to Hobart McKinley Conway Jr. will be an event of today, was honored recently at a bridge party given by Mrs. J. F. Kellam and Mrs. W. H. Mahone at their home on Virginia place. The refreshment table featured a pair of white satin wedding slippers posed on princess lace veiling and holding bouquets of white asters and clematis. White tapers gleamed in crystal candlesticks. The entire table was festooned with green and white clematis.

Guests included Miss Kellam, Mrs. Armine Kellam, mother of the bride; Mrs. H. M. Conway, the groom's mother; Miss Coley Kellam, Francis Stone, Harriet Floyd, Ann Lunford, Sarah Matthews, Mary Downing, Charlotte Downing, Mary Katherine Beers, Irene Holt, Gail Rankin, Genevieve Barrett, Martha Howell, Mesdames Miriam Beers, L. A. Burdett, J. W. Warner, W. G. Fowler, Harold Bowcock and R. J. Kellam. Preceding the wedding rehearsal last evening, Mr. and Mrs. Hobart McKinley Conway, parents of the groom-elect, entertained the members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests at dinner at the Tavern team. Mrs. J. W. Warner entertained recently for Miss Kellam at a buffet supper and kitchen shower. The bride-elect was presented with a miniature wedding bouquet of valley lilies made on the back of a cheese grater, and showered with white ribbons, valley lilies, kitchen spoons and other small utensils. Mrs. R. J. Kellam entertained for the bride-elect at a recent luncheon at the Paradise Room of the Henry Grady hotel. Mrs. Harry Baker's tea at her home on Oakdale road honored Miss Kellam. One hundred guests called during the afternoon.

Salmon Industry Told U.S. to Take 60 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP) The Agricultural Marketing Administration notified the salmon industry today that the government would require at least 60 per cent of the 1942 cannery pack for the military forces, lend-lease and other government distribution.

After salmon cannery have offered this part of their pack to the AMA purchasing agent, officials said they probably would receive releases of 20 per cent of their pack for normal trade outlets. The remaining 20 per cent will be retained by cannery until final determination is made of government requirements.

For Miss Yundt And Lt. Bethea

Miss Caroline Yundt and Lieutenant Charles Bethea, United States Navy, whose marriage takes place on October 2, will be guests of honor this evening at the dinner party to be given by the groom-elect's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Bethea. The party will take place at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the hosts on Greystone road, and the beautifully appointed table will feature yellow and white hues.

Spanish Circle.

El Circulo Hispano-Americano meets Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Gas Company building. Mrs. M. P. Miller has planned a very interesting program on Mexico, including a talk on its origin, and some famous Mexican poetry. Her daughter will give a Mexican dance, accompanied at the piano by Sergeant Lawrence Munn. The meeting is conducted entirely in Spanish. For reservations call DE. 5262, or the club, VE. 0761.

Writers' Club Meets Tonight

The Atlanta Writers' Club will meet this evening at 7 o'clock in the banquet hall of the Atlanta Woman's Club, with the president, Dr. W. F. Melton, presiding. The honor guests will be Marguerite Steedman, whose new book, "But You'll Be Back," is receiving much deserved attention, Maud Lay Elton, author of "As a Woman Thinks," and Mrs. Bonita Crowe, former chairman of music for the club, who has composed several recent numbers, among which is "Rain" which will be sung by William Wyatt, tenor, with Mrs. Crowe as accompanist. Mrs. Audria Gray, chairman of music for the Writers' Club, will present Samuel Cobb, pianist, who will play Chopin numbers. Mrs. Gray will also present the other musicians. North Georgia College Opens Next Monday

Record Enrollment Seen At Dahlonega by President Rogers.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. DAHLONEGA, Ga., Sept. 16.—North Georgia College will open its fall session with freshman orientation week beginning Monday, September 21.

New faculty members announced today by President J. C. Rogers are L. R. Towson who comes from Georgia Southwestern College as associate professor of mathematics; Ewell G. Piggs, who comes from Georgia Teachers' College as instructor in physical science; Robert Belcher, from Norman Junior College as instructor in physical science; Kenneth England as instructor in English; Colonel Claude Hammond as professor of military science and tactics; and George Ramsey as instructor in physical education.

An addition to the physical education department has been necessitated by the college's greatly enlarged physical fitness program for all students, it is stated.

Dr. Rogers predicts an enrollment equal to and probably larger than last year's record enrollment.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

Mr. Franco of Spain is swinging in with the Allies because he's a smart bird and can read a stencil on a barrel head.

Mr. Franco has only to look sideways off his peninsula to see a lad named Mussolini playing second fiddle to a German tuning fork.

The Axis musical scale runs from yah to ouch. And Mussolini does the vocalizing.

Poor old Benito is demonstrating the mathematical truth that there are two sides to every question. But the answers are one-sided.

And Senor Franco doesn't want the benevolent assimilation the walrus gave the oysters.

Courses this fall will include the military training program of the college and the numerous special war courses such as radio, photography, combustion engines, principles of aviation, and a course for assistant technicians. Some of these war courses are open to women students as well as men, it is announced.

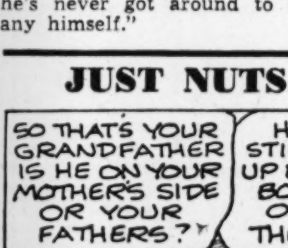

NAVY VOLUNTEERS. ROCHELLE, Ga., Sept. 16.—The following Wilcox county boys have volunteered and have been accepted in the Navy: Thomas Barfield, of Abbeville; David E. Harvey, of Pinewyke; Elrie Gibbs, of Rochelle; and Albert C. Wilkerson, of Rochelle.

BEHIND THE GUNS—These men are responsible for the production of guns, tanks, planes, ships and other weapons of war in the southeast. District managers of the War Production Board, they are charged with the task of increasing and speeding the south's war production. They met here in conference with regional WPB heads yesterday. The group includes, seated (left to right): George H. Andrews, Jacksonville; James P. Barnes, Birmingham; and J. E. MacDougall, Charlotte. Standing (left to right) are John K. Lester, Memphis; O. M. Jackson, chief deputy WPB regional director, of the Atlanta office; and George S. Gillen, Nashville.

District Heads Of WPB Meet With Directors

Group Maps Plans Under Recently Decentralized Program.

District managers of the War Production Board in the southeast met here yesterday with Frank Neely, regional WPB director, and O. M. Jackson, his chief deputy, to map plans under the recently decentralized WPB program for stepping up war production.

Composed of former industrialists and business leaders, the group was meeting for the first time since much of WPB's authority was placed in regional and district hands rather than in Washington.

The group included George H. Andrews, Jacksonville; James P. Barnes, Birmingham; J. E. MacDougall, Charlotte; John K. Lester, Memphis; and George S. Gillen, Nashville.

THE CONSTITUTION STAFF

City council's police committee will meet at the police station at 8 o'clock tonight with only routine business scheduled for consideration. Two hotels have been cited to show cause why their licenses to operate should not be revoked.

Soterios Nicholson, prominent Washington attorney attending the Athens convention, called on Mayor Hartsfield yesterday. Nicholson was accompanied to the executive offices by several other convention delegates.

Executive board of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Decatur Presbyterian church will meet at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at the church. The auxiliary will take part in a joint "priority" meeting of adult members of the church at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. Dr. Manfred G. Gutze, of Columbia Seminary, will be the speaker.

Descendants of William and Mary McDaniel, of Gwinnett county, will hold their annual family reunion Sunday at Liberty Baptist church, on the Lawrenceville road, near Lilburn, Ga.

C. D. Kelly, operator of the C. D. Kelly Dairy, was fined $50 and costs in recorder's court yesterday afternoon for violation of the city's milk ordinance. Charges against Kelly were filed by C. K. Day, city milk sanitarian.

Bank clearings amounted to $20,900,000 yesterday, compared with $17,000,000 for the corresponding day last year.

Judge Ralph McClelland, of Fulton civil court, yesterday was able to leave Piedmont hospital, where he recently underwent an operation. He is expected to remain in his duties at the court in two or three weeks. His secretary, Mrs. Alma De Lucia, and his bailiff, Gordon Hardy, who also recently underwent operations, have returned to work.

Rural and Mountain Circle of the American Sunday School Association will meet at 10 o'clock this morning at Park Street Methodist church to sew for mountain children. All church women have been invited.

Two Atlantans, Margaret and Del. William Tinkler, of 2432 Peachtree road, are registered at DePauw University for the fall semester. Miss Tinkler is a freshman. Her brother is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and is on the staff of the campus newspaper.

Forced Labor in France Not U. S. Business—Nazis

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A German foreign office spokesman described Pierre Laval's decree for forced labor in France as "purely French matter which does not concern the American secretary of state."

A Berlin dispatch to the Zurich newspaper Die Tat said today: "His statement was made in response to a request for comment on Secretary Hull's representations to Vichy yesterday."

U. S. Seamen Man Guns On Russian Ship

MOSCOW, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Red Fleet, organ of the Soviet Navy, said today that a United States officer, Lieutenant Hall, insisted that he and his men be allowed to operate the ship's anti-aircraft guns when they were picked up by a Russian vessel after their own boat had been torpedoed in northern Russian waters.

The Russians granted his wish and soon a German plane came over. It was downed promptly, Red Fleet said.

The paper, which did not give the first name of the rescued officer, said he made a hit with Soviet sailors with his singing and dancing.

(There has been no report of United States naval losses in northern Russian waters. However, the Lieutenant Hall mentioned in this dispatch may have been an officer in a gun crew on an American merchant ship.)

Head-On Train Collision Kills Four, Injures 7

Swift Passenger Limited Hits Standing Freight in Illinois.

CHARLESTON, Ill., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Four persons were killed today and at least seven others injured when the seven-car Southwestern Limited, swift passenger train on the New York-St. Louis route, rammed head-on into a standing oil freight train one and a half miles east of Ashmore, Ill.

The limited was making its regular run on the Big Four division of the New York Central System and was en route to St. Louis from New York via Buffalo, Cleveland and Indianapolis when it plowed into the freight.

John Rardin, publisher of the Charleston Daily News, who hurried to the site of the crash and talked with members of the crew and witnesses, related that the engines were locked by the impact and turned over on their sides.

He added that six passenger cars were derailed, that one pitched over on its side and that three oil cars "piled up" and caught fire.

Ambulances were dispatched from Charleston and Mattoon and fire trucks from Charleston and Kansas, Ill.

Rardin said the eastbound oil freight was idle on a siding at the eastern edge of Ashmore, waiting for the westbound limited to pass. He said the limited struck an open automatic switch, veered from the main line into the siding and crashed into the engine of the freight train.

He said the engineer of the freight was standing safely on the right of way and that his fireman leaped to safety. He reported the passenger engineer perished in the wreckage and that the fireman was trapped and scalded to death in his cab.

Rardin stated that the accident occurred at 3:15 p. m. central war time.

The dead were listed by Coroner Horace V. Clark, of Coles county, as Thomas Kane, Indianapolis, passenger engineer; J. D. Hooten, Indianapolis, passenger fireman; W. W. Watson, Indianapolis, a railway express messenger who was in the first car of the limited; and an unidentified man who apparently was riding in the passenger locomotive cab and was believed to have been a student fireman.

The seven injured were rushed to hospitals here.

ARMY NOTIFIED OF VOTE.
BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Notices that voting in the November elections at home is permissible were placed today in all United States Army posts in Ulster, although the lack of transportation for the ballots has caused a feeling of uncertainty in command quarters.

Overtime Pay for Federal Workers Will Be Studied

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP) Legislation to authorize extra pay for federal civil service workers for overtime work will be considered by a senate committee next Tuesday, aides of Senator Mead, Democrat, New York, disclosed today.

They said Mead had invited officials of Federal Employee Associations and departmental officers to testify at a hearing before a Civil Service subcommittee of which he is chairman.

A bill by Mead to set up a rate of time and a half for all time worked above 40 hours a week would be the basis for the committee's study. Similar legislation is pending in the house.

Federal employees are not covered by the wage-hour law.

Brenda—Will You Step Out With Me Tonight?

I know I've been an awful grouch not taking you any place lately. But after standing all day at my new job, my feet darn near killed me with callouses and burning. Now I've returned—oh, rather my feet have—thanks to the Ice-Mint you advised. Never tried anything that seemed to draw the pain and fire right out so fast. Let's go dancing tonight. You can step on my Ice-Mint feet all you want.

RAF Bombardier Beaten and Robbed in Heart of New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP) Patrick Murphy, 26-year-old bombardier with the Royal Air Force, was beaten and robbed in the heart of New York City early today and remarked ruefully: "For two years I flew over Germany and Occupied France where there was plenty of excitement, but I have to be walking down Fifth Avenue to get my brains knocked out."

Murphy was attacked, he told police, by four Negroes who robbed him of $1.18 and his identification tag. Two youths were arrested later and the pockets of one, police said, yielded the $1.18 and identification tag. They were charged with assault and robbery.
